- 1 2 (2.00 pm) 3 MR IAY:
- 3 MR JAY: Mr Mosley, I believe I was about to take you to
- 4 paragraph 53 of your witness statement, please. You
- 5 suggest there that Mr Dacre and Ms Brooks agreed to
- 6 launch a campaign against Mr Justice Eady.
- 7 A. Yes, that's correct.
- 8 Q. Was that a joint campaign or a several campaign?
- 9 A. As my understanding is that it was several in effect,
- but joint in agreement. My understanding is that they
- 11 got together, but then decided that Mr Justice Eady was
- to be attacked.
- 13 Q. I am asked to put to you this, and it probably is no
- surprise, that Associated's position is that whatever
- stance Mr Dacre took, and he was quite entitled to take
- it, it certainly wasn't in any collusion with Ms Brooks,
- 17 he did it entirely off his own bat. Do you have any
- 18 comment?
- 19 A. I would not find that surprising, but I must say in
- 20 general about these people, and by that I mean
- 21 Rebekah Brooks as well as Mr Dacre, that certainly in
- Rebekah Brooks' case she could deny for England because
- they denied the "for Neville" email, they denied that
- they'd ever had more than one journalist involved in
- hacking, they denied it again until it became absolutely Page 1

- down his views shorn of moral balance."
- 2 Another example though of comment, rightly or
 - wrongly, on a decision, isn't it?
- 4 A. One could say that. I would say this is calculated to
- 5 intimidate a judge. If I put myself in the position of
- 6 Mr Justice Eady, somebody who is a distinguished judge
- 7 and jurist, who is not used to being attacked in the
- 8 public domain, like for example I have been to do with
- 9 motor racing, I would find that offensive, I would find
- 10 it worrying.
- If you think those sort of articles are going to
- 12 appear, it must influence you to some degree. You must
- realise just the way that the so-called celebrities
- 14 realise that they're going to be attacked. It's highly
- unpleasant. And I cannot believe this is done for any
- 16 purpose other than to intimidate.
- 17 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Let me assure you, Mr Mosley, that
- although we don't hit the headlines quite so frequently,
- we're well used to being criticised and to saying
- 20 nothing about it. And that may require biting one's
- 21 tongue occasionally, but we recognise that goes with the
- territory and it doesn't alter anything we do.
- 23 A. I'm sure it has no effect, sir, no.
- 24 MR JAY: I must deal with the issue of impact, Mr Mosley.
- 25 A. Of?

Page 3

- 1 obvious and Mr Edmondson then was fired. They kept
- denying it. Then in April of I think this year, they
- admitted that it could have happened between (inaudible)
- 4 and us. I could go on and on and on.
- $5\,$ $\,$ Q. Fair enough, we get the picture. You are providing us
- 6 the commentary.
- 7 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: I get the picture of your view, or
- 8 you're entitled to your view as other people are
- 9 entitled to their view, but the question is: does the
- 10 basis of your understanding have an evidential
- 11 foundation?
- 12 A. It does. I was told this by a senior -- former senior
- employee of News International. It would be wrong for
- me to announce his name, because obviously this was
- 15 confidential, but I'd be very happy to write it down for
- you, sir, if that would be helpful.
- 17 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: All right. So you've got it from
- a source and you can't go beyond it?
- 19 A. Correct. But I'm very confident that I was told the
- 20 truth.
- 21 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Fair enough.
- 22 MR JAY: Before I deal with a very serious issue, Mr Mosley,
- paragraph 54, you refer to another piece in the
- 24 Daily Mail, which has a bit of a shivering title:
- 25 "As cold as a frozen haddock, Mr Justice Eady hands Page 2

- 1 Q. Impact.
- 2 A. Yes.

- 3 Q. And this is the serious issue I was touching on.
- 4 Paragraph 57. I appreciate a personal matter, but could
- 5 you tell us in your own words about that, please?
- A. Yes. My son was a drug addict, and he was one of these
- 7 people, extremely intelligent, had a mathematics PhD,
- 8 he'd co-authored a paper on economics with Lord Desai,
- 9 he'd written open source software with Linux and got
- prizes, intelligent. But like a lot of intelligent
- people, he suffered from depression and his way of
 - dealing with this, the only effective way he found,
- despite endless doctors, was drugs.
- 14 He was getting to the age where he knew that if he
- 15 didn't get off -- he made several attempts to get off --
- if he didn't get off his drugs, probably this would end
- badly. He was struggling with it. He had overcome his
- problem and the News of the World story had the most

It was just so awful. And one can imagine that. I mean

- 19 devastating effect on him. He really couldn't bear it.
- 21 it's bad for me, but for my sons to see pictures of your
- father in that sort of situation all over the
- 23 newspapers, all over the web, all your friends seeing
- it, also for my wife, and he really couldn't bear it.
- 25 He went back on the drugs and he didn't -- it would be Page 4

- 1 wrong to say he committed suicide. He didn't. That was
- 2 fairly clear from all the circumstances. But like many
- 3 people on hard drugs, it's extremely dangerous and you
- 4 make a small mistake and you die, and that's what
- 5 happened.
- 6 Q. That was in May of 2009?
- 7 A. It was.
- 8 Q. You deal with some of the other effects of that in
- 9 paragraph 58. You went to your late son's house to sort
- 10 out his personal effects. There was one journalist on
- 11 the doorstep and then frankly a whole mob arrived within 11
- 12 a short space of time?
- A. This is correct. What was to me -- I don't want to 13
- 14 overdo it, but what to me was so horrifying was there
- 15 was no sense of this matters, these are human beings,
- 16 these people actually mind, that is a terrible situation
- 17 for somebody to be in. It's oh, maybe we can write
- 18 a story, so let's be there, and they had these
- 19 photographers there, and I called my solicitor, he
- 20 arrived on the scene and gave them all a letter, and
- 21 they left, because I think they knew very -- they all
- 22 called their -- obviously they're all on their mobile
- 23 phones, I suspect to headquarters, and I think they were
- 24 probably told that we'd have a rerun of I think it was
- 25 called Hanover versus Germany in the court, we would Page 5
 - have had a rerun of that. I would have sued them
- 2 because I thought it was absolutely outrageous to come
- 3 and try and take pictures of somebody in that sort of
- 4 situation. We were in a desperate situation. They have
- 5 no human feeling at all.

- 6 Q. Thank you. We've already touched on some of the other
- 7 consequences of Internet publication, and the next
- 8 section of your witness statement deals with that in
- 9 some detail, Internet use in the United Kingdom through
- 10 the News of the World until you win your case, and then
- 11 there were all the knock-on effects throughout the
- 12 world, really, with the World Wide Web. You've already
- 13 told us that you have instructed, as you've had to have
- 14 done, firms of lawyers in 20 different jurisdictions in
- 15 order to try and close this down.
- 16 A. That is correct. We haven't succeeded. All we can
- 17 really do is mitigate, but we have reduced it, that must
- 18 be said.
- 19 Q. Yes. You've told us how much that has cost you.
- 20 A. I've never really added it up, I dread doing it, but
- 21 it's well over £500,000, well over, and it's ongoing.
- 22 Q. I'd like to deal with a related issue, namely the
- 23 economics of litigation, the particular case which
- 24 you've won in front of Mr Justice Eady. Slightly out of
- 25 sequence, it's paragraph 76 of your witness statement. Page 6

- A. Yes.
- 2 Q. This is something any civil lawyer will understand
- 3 immediately, but the public at large would be forgiven
- 4 for not understanding why, if you win a case, you're, as
- 5 it were, not left out of pocket, but you are left out of
- 6 pocket because you get your £60,000 damages awarded by
- 7 Mr Justice Eady, your legal costs are your obligation to
- 8 pay your lawyers whatever they reasonably charge you,
- and that's a matter of contract between you and them.
- 10 You then get an order for assessment of your costs from
- the judge, which you got in your case, and then another
- 12 judge, the costs judge, assesses the costs and at the
- 13 end of that exercise, all by agreement, you ended up
- 14 with in fact a very good result. 82 per cent of all
- 15 your costs were then paid by the losing party,
- 16 News International. Is that a fair summary of what

- 18 A. That's an exact summary. Because I think the difficulty
- 19 is this, that you never, except in the most exceptional
 - circumstances, get all your costs. This is trivial for
- 21 the lawyers, but you don't. And that means there is
- 22 a difference between the costs the court gives you and
- 23 the costs that you actually have to pay. They come out
- 24 of your damages. In this case, they exceeded the
- 25 damages, and in virtually any privacy case they would
 - Page 7
- 1 exceed the damages.
- 2 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: We actually learnt about this
- 3 yesterday because Mr Lewis was making the point in
- 4 connection with the settlement of one of his actions
- 5 that he received every single penny piece of his costs.
- 6 That I think was the Taylor litigation. Yes.
- 7 MR JAY: That may or may not have one or two unusual
- 8 features, but in your case where you had a good result,
- 9 there was a shortfall of 18 per cent, and in pounds,
- 10 shillings and pence, that's £30,000 out of pocket, isn't
- 11
- 12 A. Exactly, exactly. I think that Mr Lewis in the Taylor
- 13 case was absolutely astonished at the level --
- 14 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: He made that point.
- A. He made the point.
- 16 MR JAY: I'd like to come back to a point which I know you
- 17 regard as extremely important, the argument for prior
- 18 notification. In your own words, as succinctly as you
- 19 can, give us the nutshell of the point which you wish to
- 20 impress on this Inquiry, please, Mr Mosley.
- 21 A. In a nutshell, the point is that in a privacy matter,
- 22 once the information has been made public, it can never
- 23 ever be made private again. Therefore, the only
- 24 effective remedy is to stop it becoming public. What is
- 25 needed is a mechanism to get an order to stop it Page 8

2 (Pages 5 to 8)

- Day 7 PM Leveson Inquiry 1 becoming public. That is completely doable if you know 1 rightly, because they know they're in the right, so it's 2 2 that the information is about to be published. The only all self-contained in a more rapid and cheaper process. 3 gap in the law, and it is a gap in the law, is if the 3 Do you agree or disagree with that? 4 4 newspaper manages to keep secret their intention to A. I agree completely. My information is that to seek an 5 publish the information, then out it comes and it's too 5 injunction, the costs are something less than 5 per cent 6 late, and there's nothing more to be done. What follows 6 7 7 from that is there should be prior notification. 8 One quick point on that is that Mr Dacre, in 8 9 evidence to the Select Committee, said that in 99 cases 9 10 out of 100, the individual has notice, because the 10 11 newspaper would normally approach somebody and ask them 11 12 for a comment. He may have been slightly exaggerating, 12 13 but I can't believe he would not tell the truth to 13 14 a Select Committee, so it's a minority of cases, but of 14 15 course they're the very cases where the newspaper knows 15 16 that if you did find out, you'd get an injunction. So 16 17 they keep it secret, knowing that they can -- once 17 18 they've published it, no one in their right mind, I say 18 19 that of myself, no one in their right mind would sue, 19 20 because it will cost you money, you'll get the 20 21 21 information published all over again and you don't solve 22 the problem because the information can't be made 22 23 23 private. means. Would you agree with that? 24 24 So it's those 1 per cent that are really dangerous, 25 25 but without notification, a newspaper at the moment, if Page 9 tribunal, some form of enhanced regulatory body, but 1 they have outrageous information or pictures, if they 1 2 2 can only publish them before the person finds out, 3 3 there's no remedy, unless one says, well, £30,000, 4 repetition and so on is a remedy, but really repetition 4 5 in court is rather like suing because you have a broken 5 6 leg, going to court and then they break the other leg, 6 7 7 with absolute privilege, as well, because it just makes 8 8 it worse. it shouldn't be free. 9 9
 - Sorry, that wasn't much of a nutshell, but in a nutshell, it is the very cases where there's an egregious breach of privacy that are the ones where they don't tell you and where prior notification is essential. Q. There's another argument which one might throw into the melting pot and it's this, that the prior notification,
 - if it's a legal requirement, will then lead to a fairly rapid hearing before a judge, and so the legal costs will be kept within reasonable bounds. The second point is that you'll only get the injunction as a claimant unless you show on balance that your privacy has been violated and there's no public interest justification.

So in practical terms, if you win the prior notification injunction, you in effect will win the case, but it works the other way around. If you lose it, the newspaper will publish with impunity, perhaps Page 10 of the costs of a full trial. Of course, that also applies to the newspaper. If I may, as you say, under I think it's section 12(3) of the Act, you have to show that you're more likely than not to win the case and you have to satisfy the judge you're more likely than not. Well, what can be wrong with that? Because if an independent judge thinks you're more likely than not to win, then you should have injunction, because if you don't have -- if it's out, although you win the case, you win nothing because the information is in the public domain.

- Q. That answer is not wholly going to satisfy the Inquiry to this extent, that although privacy proceedings, £500,000 each side is really only for the very wealthy, even these proceedings, injunction proceedings, are for the wealthy and the bold. Pre-notification doesn't deal with, if I may say so, the ordinary person with limited
- A. Completely. I very much believe that there should be an alternative mechanism. There should be some form of Page 11
- it's a very big question, but to which you could go. I think it's absolutely essential that such a body should be free of charge, because otherwise, however
- cheap it is, even if you went to the county courts, as
- some of the academics have suggested, that is beyond the

If I may say this, invasion of privacy is worse than

- means of a great many people, and there is no reason why
- 10 burglary because if somebody burgles your house, unless 11 it's heirlooms, you can replace the things that have
- 12 been taken, repair the damage. But if someone breaches
- 13 your privacy, you can never repair the damage, never put 14 it right again. So it matters. But with burglary, if
- 15 you find a burglar in your house and call the police,
- 16 they don't say, "Are you rich? Because if you're not
- 17 rich, we're not going to come". They come and arrest
- 18 him. There should be a similar mechanism to stop people
- 19 breaching the privacy of an ordinary person who is not
- 20 in a position to find the money to ask for an
- 21
- 22 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Of course, to say it should be free
- 23 of charge begs the question as to who is going to pay
- 24
- 25 A. Indeed, sir. But if you had a body that was similar to Page 12

1 the Press Complaints Commission, which is free, but was 1 made the standard higher in privacy. 2 2 independent both of the press and the government and But I think those very difficult questions are 3 3 everybody else, and made the central division, which is exactly what judges are for and what they do, and what's 4 4 often not talked about, the division between making the dangerous is to allow the editor of a tabloid to weigh 5 rules and enforcing the rules, and the only thing -- at 5 this up, when really all he wants to do is sell 6 the moment, the rules themselves are not that bad. 6 newspapers. 7 7 What's missing with the PCC is the ability to enforce In the particular case you've mentioned, I think 8 them. If you had a body that could enforce the rules, 8 probably what Mr Justice Eady would have done is said 9 it almost -- you don't necessarily have to have 9 that he could see no public interest in this. He did 10 10 superqualified people. I'd prefer to have anyone actually say that in his judgment --11 11 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Yes, maybe I have to change your deciding whether my privacy should be breached or not 12 more than an editor. 12 facts a little bit, but I want to get to a situation 13 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: The other argument is that it would 13 where there is a real argument about public interest, 14 smack of censorship, wouldn't it? 14 which requires a proper investigation. 15 A. No more than the existing procedure. The only 15 A. My submission there would be that then the judge should 16 difference between that, sir, and the existing procedure 16 lean slightly against, if I may put it like that, 17 would be that it would be available free of charge. 17 article 12(3) -- section 12(3), because it's a little bit like the situation where I have a tree at the bottom 18 I mean, people don't say that if I go -- if I had been 18 19 to Mr Justice Eady with the knowledge and asked for an 19 of my garden and Mr Jay says he's entitled to cut it 20 injunction, I suppose the News of the World might have 20 down. The court will normally say, "You may well be 21 21 said it was censorship, but I don't think any reasonable right, Mr Jay, but once you've cut it down, you can't 22 person would have. 22 put it up again so we'll leave it there pending trial". LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Let me now put another situation to 23 23 I think what the judge could do in a difficult case is 24 24 you. Forgive me if I take your example because it say, "This is a difficult case, it needs a trial, I'm 25 25 actually allows the point to be made. Mr Justice Eady going to grant the injunction, but I'm going to give an Page 13 Page 15 expedited trial." 1 was unsure whether, if he'd been satisfied about the 1 2 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Mr Jay might pursue this. underlying allegation, whether that would have been in 2 3 3 MR JAY: There will be submissions of law on it but I think the public interest or not. Now, what concerns me, just 4 thinking through the points as I was reading your it's fair to say Mr Mosley, in your case, the combined 5 5 statement and Mr Justice Eady's judgment, was how you effect of paragraphs 22 and 36 of Mr Justice Eady's 6 are going to resolve that issue. You will go along to 6 judgment of 9 April 2008 is that if it weren't for the 7 7 dam bursting point, you would have got your injunction. the judge -- and for those who don't understand, these 8 8 are comparatively short hearings -- and say, "My That's certainly my reading of it, you don't have to 9 9 comment whether you agree or not. privacy's being infringed. This is what they want to 10 10 A. But I do. say about me and it's outrageously untrue". They will 11 come along and say, "Oh no, it isn't, it's absolutely 11 Q. I'm giving you that assurance. The wider point, what 12 true." Then suddenly you have to have a trial because 12 happens in a case where the public interest is more 13 13 debatable, that can be dealt with by legal submission in the balance of whether you grant an injunction may 14 14 depend upon whether you think the allegation of truth of due course. 15 15 I would like, however, to dwell just very briefly on falsity is the more accurate, which is the more 16 the reasons that the European Court of Human Rights, the 16 accurate. 17 Fourth Chamber, gave for rejecting your prior 17 A. Indeed. Of course, that situation already exists, and 18 18 notification argument. In this very fat bundle I'm as far as number one, prior notification, and number 19 19 going to go straight to the discussion or conclusion of two, a very inexpensive if not free of charge tribunal, 20 20 the European Court. It's page 410 on the small is perhaps a separate issue, but on the fundamental 21 21 issue that you've just raised, it will always be numbering. This document, of course, is in the public 22 22 difficult. Of course, in ordinary injunctions, again, domain. I'm not going to ask for it to be put up. 23 23 forgive me, in ordinary injunctions is the American LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: For those who don't understand, in 24 24 relation to prior notification, you took a case to the Cyanamid test, which is a balance of convenience, but 25 25 they deliberately -- from lobbying from the press --European Court of Human Rights and it went to the

- 1 Grand Chamber, all the way along the line.
- 2 A. It went, sir, to one of the small chambers and then we
- 3 tried to go to the Grand Chamber --
- 4 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: And they refused.
- 5 A. Yes.
- MR JAY: It was the fourth division.
- 7 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Yes.
- 8 MR JAY: I am going to summarise this as succinctly as I can
- 9 without, I hope, losing the nuance. At paragraph 120,
- 10 they said that the general rule is that damages after
- 11 the event will satisfy Article 8. Do you follow me?
- 12 And then they considered at paragraph 121 whether,
- 13 notwithstanding that, there were good reasons for
- 14
- requiring pre-notification as an adjunct to Article 8.
- 15 They addressed that on two levels, Mr Mosley. First 16 of all, paragraph 122, the traditional margin of - appreciation arguments, which mean in essence, well, the
- 18 European Court leaves it to the domestic court, a wide
- 19 margin of discretion as to how to organise its
- 20 procedures.

17

- 21 But then there is an interesting section of the
- 22 judgment which I do draw to your attention, because it
- 23 arguably contains a solecism which has been perpetrated 24 by others. Page 412 at the bottom, paragraph 126:
- 25 "However, the court is persuaded that concerns

- 2 and practice are not unjustified. Two considerations

regarding the effectiveness of a pre-notification duty

- 3 arise. First, it's generally accepted that any
- 4 pre-notification obligation would require some form of
- 5 public interest exception, thus a newspaper could opt
- 6 not to notify a subject if it believed that it could
- 7 subsequently defend its decision on the basis of the
- 8 public interest. The court considers that in order to
- 9 prevent a serious chilling effect on freedom of
- 10
- expression, a reasonable belief that there was a public 11 interest at stake would have to be sufficient to justify
 - non-notification, even if it was subsequently held that
- 13 no such public interest arose."
- 14 May I respectfully suggest, not to you but to those 15 who wrote it, that it's arguable, at least, that two
- 16 matters have been conflated. First, there is the public
- interest in not notifying you, because you might be 18 a criminal, you might destroy evidence or whatever, and
- 19 then there is the public interest in justifying the 20 publication in due course. What arguably the court have
- 21 done here is to use arguments which pertain to the
- 22 second consideration to the first, and they therefore
- 23 have entered into error, the same error which you would
- 24 say, perhaps, infiltrates the reasoning of the Select
- 25 Committee when they come to address the self-same issue. Page 18

- 1 Is that a fair summary of your position?
- A. That's a precise summary. I think that the issue that
- 3 matters is: is there a prior notification argument in
- relation to the notification itself? 4
- 5 O. Yes.
- 6 A. When it gets to the subject matter, the judge will look
- 7 at that.
- Q. The other point which they make strikes me, with great 8
- respect, again as a thunderingly bad or surprising
- 10 point. They say if there were an injunction, the
- 11 newspaper might break it because they would be happy to
- 12 pay the punitive fine, which seems to me to involve
- 13 a bit of a misunderstanding about what the rule of law
- 14 entails. If you got your injunction, you would be in
- 15 contempt of court to break it and it would be
- 16 unthinkable that a newspaper would ever take that risk.
- 17 So that may be the complete answer to the European
- 18 Court's second point, or it may not.
- 19 A. I think that's a very strange reasoning. Apart from
- 20 anything else, if the fine is big enough, they won't
- 21 ignore it. It might be an argument for upping the fine
- 22 but it will never be an argument for saying it was okay
- 23 to breach somebody's privacy.
- 24 Q. Well, whatever, one respects the judgment, it is the law
- 25 coming out of Europe. The Grand Chamber were invited by Page 19
 - you to reconsider this and they have not granted you the
- 2 privilege to do so. The matter rests now with this
- 3 decision.
- 4 A. That's correct.
- 5 O. That doesn't mean, of course, you would say, that
- 6 domestic law could not move further than European law
- 7 and provide you the protections which you say should
- 8 apply, namely prior notification, because it's certainly
- 9 within the gift of Parliament to provide for that if so
- 10 advised?
- 11 A. Indeed. The only reason that I went to Strasbourg was
- 12 that I thought there was no chance of convincing a UK
- 13 government to bring in the necessary legislation,
- 14 because, to put it bluntly, they were completely in the
- 15 thrall of Mr Murdoch and other big newspaper people who
- 16 would have objected. That spell has now been broken,
- 17 I think fairly conclusively, and I don't see any reason
- 18 why such a law should not be brought in.
- 19 The case for prior notification, to my way of
- 20 thinking, is unanswerable. I think it's just so
- 21 absolutely clear that you need it and it's the right way to do it. The only outstanding issue is how you would

- 23 arrange your tribunal that could do this without it
- 24 being ruinously costly, but that's the only issue. That
 - you need prior notification, that you need an

- 1 independent person to decide in a difficult case whether 2 it be published or not seems to me unanswerable.
- 3 Q. Thank you. Towards the end of your statement, you deal 3
- 4 with the wider picture and your views about press
- 5 regulation, and we're going to come to that, but there
- 6 are some specific points I would like to raise with you.
- 7 The first point in relation to Mr Dacre, you are
- 8 well aware that he has stated publicly that
- 9 Mr Justice Eady's decision is incorrect. I think he
- 10 referred in a lecture in 2008 to the subjective and
- 11 relativistic view of Mr Justice Eady, and then in
- 12 evidence to the Select Committee, which we have 13 available, he expressed a similar view.
- 14 I don't interpret your evidence as saying other than 15 that he's quite entitled to express that opinion?
- 16 A. Yes, I think that's fair.
- 17 Q. In a nutshell what he may be saying -- of course he will
- 18 say it much better than me and I should not be
- 19 understood as paraphrasing him -- is to say, "Look, this
- 20 is immoral conduct, many people would judge it thus;
- 21 surely, therefore, there is a right as part of the
- 22 newspaper's right of fair comment under Article 10 or
- 23 whatever for these matters to come to light because of
- 24 the nature of the subject matter". I have expressed in
- 25 a way I'm sure Mr Dacre would not, but the general
 - Page 21
 - sentiment I've sought to get across. May I have your 1 something that I did sexually, in private, with
- 2 comment on it, please?

- 3 A. The thing is that what Dacre said I think in his speech
- 4 to the Society of Editors and in an editorial, he said
- 5 that I was guilty of unimaginable depravity. Well,
- 6 first of all, it reflects badly on his imagination, but
- 7 apart from that, it's not a sensible comment because
- 8 I wouldn't -- I have no idea what Mr Dacre's sex life
- 9 is. All I know is that he has this sort of
- 10 preoccupation with schoolboy smut in his website, with 10
- 11 Ms X in her bikini, Ms Y showing off her suntan,
- 12 et cetera. So he may have some sort of strange sex
- 13 life, but the point is it's not up to me to go into his
- 14 bedroom, film him and then write about it. It's his
- 15 business. And equally, if somebody has a slightly
- 16 unusual sex life, exactly the same thing applies.
- 17
- I think the law is very clear, and I think it's 18 quite right, that if it's private, it's adult and it's
- 19 consensual, then it concerns nobody else. The moment
- 20 you go into the area where you say, "I don't really like
- 21 what that person's doing", lots of people do things
- 22 I don't like, it's not up to me to tell them not to.
- 23 All I can object to, I can say please don't do it in
- 24 front of me, please make sure everybody consents, and
- 25 that's an end of the matter.

- I think I said this before, I'm sorry to repeat
- myself, it's a completely old-fashioned idea. It dates
- from the days when, for example, I was young, where it
- 4 was illegal to be gay, and all sorts of sexual
- 5 activities which some people find quite normal, I might
- 6 not, but some do, were actually criminal offences, even
- 7 between a man and a woman, and all that's been changed.
- 8 The world has moved on. The only person who hasn't
- 9 moved on is Mr Dacre.
- 10 Q. What he said to the Select Committee, and this is on
- 11 23 April 2009, he said this: 12 "With the greatest respect to you [by which he means
- 13 the committee], I think a lot of us were very surprised
- 14 at the soft time you gave him [the 'him' in that
- 15 sentence is you, Mr Mosley]. For Max Mosley to present
- 16 him as a knight in shining armour proclaiming
- 17 sanctimoniousness and aggrieved self-righteousness in
- 18 his crusade to clean up the press is an almost surreal
- 19 conversion of the moral values of normal civilised
- 20 society. Indeed for Mr Mosley to crusade against the
- 21 media is a bit like being the Yorkshire Ripper
- 22 campaigning against men who batter women."
- 23 A. It's really quite sad, actually, that he should say
- 24 things like that to the committee, because what he's
- 25 really saying is he doesn't like or didn't like
 - Page 23
- 2 consenting adults, and that that -- the fact that he
- 3 didn't like it should prevent me from saying the press
- 4 should not invade people's privacy. It's an absolutely
- 5 ludicrous argument. It's a very sad thing for Mr Dacre
- 6 that every time I get invited to a university to debate,
- 7 I'll say I'll come to the other end of England if you
- 8 can get Dacre on the other side. No chance.
- 9 Q. He crystallised his point a little bit later on:
- "My main objection was the way he exploited and 11 humiliated and degraded women in this way. Paid women,
- 12 yes."
- A. It just shows again he's completely naive obviously 13
- 14 about sex. That's not a criticism, but it's a fact.
- 15 The women in my -- my little party, I like to call it,
- 16 they are total complete enthusiasts for what they do.
- 17 They love what they do. They're more into it than I've
- 18 ever been. The idea that you're exploiting them is
- 19 ludicrously naive and in fact offensive to them. They
- 20 all do these sort of things in their private lives, with
- 21 their partners. That's how they are. Mr Dacre may not
- 22 approve of it, but the fact is we live in a civilised
- 23 society where grown-ups in private should be allowed to
- 24 do what they please. It's not up to him to decide who
- 25 can do what between consenting adults.

- Q. Two further points, so the position is clear. First of
- 2 all, Mr Dacre's evidence to the Select Committee is
- 3 categorical to this extent, that the article that the
- 4 News of the World published was certainly not an article
- 5 that the Daily Mail would publish, because of its
- 6 nature, for reasons of good taste. You probably recall
- 7 that part of his evidence, do you?
- 8 A. I do well.
- 9 Q. Yes.
- 10 A. The thing is that he's in the position -- he's like the
- 11 crocodile's killed the animal and then the hyenas come
- 12 along and scavenge and he's the scavenger.
- Q. The second matter, which I'm sure you accept as well, is 13 13
- 14 that Mr Dacre's agenda is that (a) this is a matter of
- 15 his human rights which he is entitled to pursue, and
- 16 it's certainly not part of his objective, he would say,
- 17 in any way to undermine Mr Justice Eady. What he is
- 18 doing is exercising his democratic rights. Would you
- 19 accept that much?

12

25

- 20 A. I can't really accept that because what he said was that
- 21 this is an amoral judgment, I think those were the
- 22 words, from an amoral man. Well it isn't. It's
- 23 a judgment that recognises that consenting adults are
- 24 allowed to do by the law of this country what they wish
- 25 in private. He may criticise the law, that's absolutely Page 25

possible. What he should not do is criticise a judge

2 for imposing the law or applying the law. 3

What's deeply hypocritical about the thing is that if this were not the law, they could appeal -- we've had

5 this point before -- and they did not appeal. He should

6 recognise that the reason that News International did

7 not appeal was not because they agreed with the

8 judgment, it was because they knew they would lose. So

9 what he's doing is he's attacking the man, the judge,

10 he's playing the man rather than the ball. The ball is the law. If he doesn't like the law, he could campaign to change it. Meanwhile, all the judge can do is apply

13 it, and this Mr Justice Eady did.

Q. I think I've taken that point as far as I need to. Can

15 I look at the wider picture through your evidence and

16 this is the part of your witness statement which starts

17 at paragraph 100. First of all, you deal with the PCC.

18 What you say about the PCC is perhaps not unfamiliar to 18

19 this Inquiry, because it chimes with other evidence or

20 other opinion which the Inquiry has received. You make 20

21 the various points there's no power to sanction,

22 Northern & Shell have opted out, PCC wouldn't, couldn't 22

23 or didn't prevent the most scandalous abuses you refer

24 to, and you name them.

> You mention some positive aspects in paragraphs 105, 25 Page 26

106. For reasons of balance, could you tell us a little

2 bit about those matters perhaps so far as they bear on 3 you?

4 A. Absolutely. The Press Complaints Commission in my case

5 were helpful when it came to trying to stop press

harassment or harassment after the death of my son. 6

7 They did co-operate there. And I believe, but I have no

8 personal experience, that they've had some success in

9 preventing the publication of stories which shouldn't be

10 published. I think that people who know a story is coming out can call them up, and I think they've done,

11 12 I believe, a lot in that way quite successfully, but that brings us back to the fundamental point that if you

14 don't know the story's coming out, you can't ring the 15 PCC for help. That's why prior notification, once

16 again, is vital.

Q. Thank you. Then you make the "no teeth" point which 17

18 others of course have made and the conflict of interest

19 point which again others have made, but I would ask you, please, to develop your point about a suggested

21 alternative to the PCC. I know you've touched on this

22 a little bit but could you in your own words help the 23 Inquiry with the contours of your suggested alternative?

24 A. It's a subject which I could talk about for hours, but

25 briefly, I think a tribunal or body of some kind is

1 needed, and the basic principle of the PCC that it is

2 free I think is right. That it is paid for by the press

3 I think is right. But I would give the new body --

4 I would make it slightly different, that I would first

5 of all divide it into two sections, one which would make

6 the rules and the other which would enforce them, and

7 the rule-making, I think, doesn't need a great deal of 8 work. There are certain things like prior notification, but fundamentally the rules are not that bad.

10 But what is needed is a body that can enforce them, 11 so a body that would have the power to order a story not 12 to come out, if it were justified under the law as it

13 stands, would have the power to find -- would have

14 various powers effectively rather like a judge would 15 have, and I would add to that the power to stop the 16 press harassing somebody, not ask them as the PCC does,

17 but tell them. Those points could be worked out and I would be very, very happy to submit to the Inquiry

19 a detailed proposal of that.

> But fundamentally, you should be able to go very simply and say, "I think my privacy's about to be invaded", and I would add to that even defamatory statements. I know about the rule in Bonnard v Perryman, obviously, but I think there is a case for trying to mediate these things at the beginning.

- 1 I think if somebody went with their complaint, either 2 defamation or breach of privacy, and the other side were
- 3
- made to turn up as well and you have a mediator sitting 4 there, a large proportion of these things would
- 5 disappear before they even started.
- 6 Most cases are quite simple. You would have to have
- 7 some mechanism for the complicated cases to go to the
- 8 High Court and you would have to have some mechanism for
- 9 paying for them, but there are various ways in which
- 10 that could be approached. But the overwhelming majority
- 11 of cases could be dealt with simply with a single
- 12 adjudicator, the two parties sitting there, the issue
- 13 explained briefly, no big expensive lawyers, pleadings
- 14 and all the rest of it. Most of these issues are really
- 15 quite simple. It's just that the capacity, with the
- 16 greatest respect to the legal profession, the capacity
- 17 for the legal profession to make things complicated, of
- 18 course, is great, and that's very expensive.
- 19 Q. Thank you, Mr Mosley. Journalistic practices now,
- 20 paragraph 120. This is to some extent, if I can be
- 21 forgiven for saying so, a commentary on evidence which
- 22 the Inquiry has received and will receive in due course,
- 23 particularly when it comes to Operation Motorman, do you
- 24 understand --
- 25 A. Yes.

- 1 probably get no reply. Equally, if one of their
- 2 soldiers went to prison, as Mr Rees did, and was
- 3 promptly reemployed when he came out after serving a
- 4 sentence for a very serious offence, again you would
- 5 expect that from the Mafia, you would not expect it from
 - a serious company like News International down in
- 7 Wapping.
- 8 Q. Well, Mr Mosley, doubtless your legal team will remind
 - me in due course, it may be a few months' time, to get
- 10 the reply which you've been seeking, because it may be
- 11 possible to do that.
- 12 A. Thank you.
- 13 Q. I hope you don't mind that I leave off
- 14 Operation Motorman.
- 15 A. No, it's just my opinion.
- 16 Q. Thank you. The Internet is a big issue. You have
- 17 touched on it. Is there anything else, because of
- 18 course it's of great concern to this Inquiry, any
- 19 practical solutions, any ideas you'd wish to share with
- 20 us to deal with the proliferation of information
- 21 literally at the speed of light globally?
- 22. A. I think this is something that will probably require
- 23 certainly national laws, but it would probably better
- 24 require European laws and in the end an international
- 25 convention.

But what I think can be done at quite an early stage is to -- could be done would be to require the service information which is illegal or wrong in some way.

I think the technology for that exists. Again, if it would be helpful, I'm very happy to put together providers and also the search engines not to proliferate

- O. -- we're dealing with in a lot of detail next week and
- 2 the Inquiry will be able to reach its own conclusions
- 3 about that.
- 4 But you do make one point in the context of
- 5 blackmail, paragraph 124. I'm sure you'd like to bring
- 6 this point out, that after Mr Justice Eady delivered
- 7 judgment on 24 July 2008, with his criticisms of
- 8 Mr Thurlbeck, you wrote to Mr Rupert Murdoch in New York
 - drawing your concerns to his attention. Did you receive
- 10 a reply to that letter?
- A. No, I didn't. That letter was written on 10 March this 11
- 12 year and I sent it by recorded delivery and I have
- 13 evidence from the United States postal service that it
- 14 was delivered.
 - I also sent two emails, and I was astonished.
- 16 because all I was asking him to do was to order an
- 17 inquiry in his Wapping 1 per cent into this, but got no
- 18 reply. I have to say that I cannot imagine writing to
- 19 a proper international company a letter alleging serious
- 20 criminal conduct by a senior employee and getting no
- 21 reply.
- 22 I'm sorry to say this, but I think I will, if I may.
- 23 That to me is the conduct of the Mafia. It's what you
- 24 would expect if you wrote to the head of a Mafia family
- 25 complaining about one of their soldiers. You would Page 30

- 9

Q. Thank you.

- LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: That's actually the second time
- 10 you've offered to do something, Mr Mosley, and speaking
- 11 for myself, it's very tempting to take you up on the a detailed proposal to submit to the Inquiry.

- 12 offer, but I'm not doing that generally because I think
- 13 it potentially imposes an undue burden on somebody when
- 14 at the end of the day I've not reached a conclusion as
 - to what might work.
- 16 But I might make an exception in your case for this
- 17 reason, depending on what you say about this. You have
- 18 experience of international governance in motor racing,
- 19 so I don't know whether or not that gives you any
- 20 additional understanding of the potential pitfalls to be
- 21 faced either in trying to do something nationally, let
- 22 alone internationally. So if you want to submit
- 23 anything to the Inquiry, then you can rest assured it
- 24 will be considered, but you will equally understand that
- 25 I am making absolutely no promises.

1 MR JAY: If that's the case, that would be my fault. But A. I mean, what I submit, sir, may well turn out to be 2 inadequate or no good for all sorts of reasons, but we 2 thank you very much, Mr Mosley. 3 have given it a great deal of thought and it would be --3 A. Thank you. 4 4 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Thank you. well, one can submit, and then it will be for the 5 Inquiry to decide whether it wants to adopt any or part 5 It's probably sensible just to have five minutes for 6 6 the shorthand writer and for all of us, but I repeat, 7 7 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Yes, as long as -- the basis upon five minutes actually means five minutes, or perhaps in 8 8 this case seven minutes, but not longer. It's in that file in front of you of that paragraph: 19 19 "It is inconceivable that the Daily Mail and other under tab 1. It is. 24 24 when they have the opportunity to do that that the LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Thank you. Ms Rowling, you migh 25 Information Commissioner's office in September 2011 25 have heard me say to other witnesses that I'm very Page 33 Page 35 1 grateful to them for giving up the time and putting the 1 stated that there was no evidence that any journalist 2 2 effort into volunteering evidence to the Inquiry. had asked Mr Whittamore to obtain information illegally. 3 3 I appreciate that you'll be talking about things which I'd like to leave the point there only for this 4 reason. One, so that the Daily Mail's position is 4 I very clearly understand you wish to remain private. 5 A. Thank you. 5 clearly set out through me, but secondly to make it LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: And by talking about them, you are to 6 clear that the rights and wrongs of the issue are being 6 7 investigated by the Inquiry, so let's wait and see what 7 some extent blowing on that wish. I understand that, 8 happens next week. Are you content with that? 8 but I hope you do realise the importance of what I'm 9 9 trying to do. A. May I say a word on that? I would just like to say that 10 10 A. I do. of course they would say that. I'd hope they won't 11 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: It's clear you do, because you're 11 consider this a mendacious smear. All I'm saying is the 12 fact that no journalist asked for an illegal act is not 12 here, and I wanted to express my gratitude to you. 13 the same as saying that no journalist would have 13 A. Thank you very much. 14 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: If you want a break at any stage, realised that the information they were getting had to 14 15 be illegally obtained. But that's a matter for the 15 I know we've had one, but you're entitled to say, "Just 16 16 five minutes, please". I appreciate it's a very unusual LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: You're reaching your conclusions 17 environment. 17 18 based upon your study of "What price privacy"? 18 A. LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: I'll be doing that as well. 20 20 Questions from MR JAY 21 MR JAY: You're a witness who doesn't really need much 21 MR JAY: I think a very long day is in store next Thursday 22 22 when these issues are going to be investigated. introduction at all, Ms Rowling. I think so. Some of it twice, sir. 25 A. 2007, yes. Page 34 Page 36

- Q. Can I move to paragraph 3 of your witness statement.
- 2 You make it clear that you have no personal vendetta
- 3 against the press at all.
- 4 A. Absolutely.
- 5 Q. What are your views about freedom of the press, please?
- A. I believe very, very strongly in freedom of the press 6
- 7 and freedom of expression, and I would like to make it
- 8 clear from the start that I think that there's --
- 9 alongside the kind of journalism that we're going to be
- 10 talking about today, I think there is truly heroic
- 11 journalism in Britain. I suppose my view is that we
- 12 have at the one end of the spectrum people who literally
- 13 risk their lives to go and expose the truth about war
- 14 and famine and revolution, and then at the other end we
- 15 have behaviour that is illegal, and I think
- 16 unjustifiably intrusive. I wonder sometimes why they're
- 17 given the same name, why they're called the same thing.
- 18 We should maybe invent a new word for the second group.
- 19 Q. In paragraph 4 of your witness statement, you recognise
- 20 that at least at the start of your career, media
- 21 interest had some beneficial effect on the sales of your
- 22 book; is that right?
- 23 A. I'd say so. I'd say it's a very interesting question
- 24 with regard to Harry Potter in particular, because in
- 25 1997, when the first book was published, the traditional Page 37

- 1 showed not only the number of the house but also the
- 2 name of the street, which happened to be on the building
- 3 where I was living, so I really was a sitting duck for
- 4 anyone who wanted to find me. Journalists sitting
- 5 outside in cars and so on. And because the street --
- when I bought the house, obviously I didn't know what 6
- 7 was coming. I didn't know that I was going to make
- 8 a considerable amount of money. I had bought within my
- 9 means, and this house lay directly on the street. So
- 10 I really couldn't have chosen a worse property for
- 11 someone who was going to receive that kind of press
- 12
- 13 Q. Thank you. You explain quite generally, we'll deal with
- 14 the detail later, in paragraph 7, that you've had no
- 15 choice but to take action against the press, both
- 16 through the PCC, the Press Complaints Commission, and
- 17 the courts.
- 18 A. Mm-hm.
- 19 Q. The number of times you've had to engage solicitors in
- 20 this sort of case you number at about 50; is that right?
- 21 A. Probably, yes.
- 22 Q. Does that cover both the PCC and litigation or just
- 23 litigation?
- 24 A. Yes, it might be more, but as far as I can tell, roughly
- 25 that, yes.

- 1 media was really the only game in town if a creative
- 2 person wanted to say that they'd written a book or
- 3 a film or anything of that sort. But during the ten
- 4 years that Harry Potter was published, of course the
- 5 Internet became a huge game-changer, and my fans were
- 6 primarily young people who were very Internet savvy, so
- 7 I think the Internet became for Harry Potter as great if
- 8 not a greater promotional tool. But yes, in the 9 beginning, certainly the press was helpful.
- 10 Q. So that's, as it were, the good side of journalism?
- 11 A. Mm.
- 12 Q. But in paragraph 5 you immediately move to what you
- 13 describe as a different kind of journalistic activity,
- 14 which culminated, as you explain, in you literally being
- 15 driven out of your first house.
- 16 A. Yes.
- 17 Q. Can you give us an approximate date for that, please?
- 18 A. I moved -- that was the first house that I'd ever owned,
- 19 and I bought that with advances that I'd received on the
- 20 first Harry Potter book, particularly from America. So
- 21 we moved into that house in 1997, and we left that house
- 22 in 1999. So during those two years, it had really
- 23 become untenable to remain in that house.
- 24 Q. Yes. It was the result of what which made it untenable?
- A. Doorstepping. A photograph had been published that Page 38

- 1 Q. The main concerns you wish to express relate to --2
- perhaps this is the foremost concern, you'll tell me if
- 3 this is right or wrong -- privacy of your children?
- 4 A. Definitely.
- Q. Then there's the privacy of your home and then there's - the broader issue of fair treatment?
- 7 A. Yes.
- 8 Q. Is that correct? Privacy of your children first,
- 9 please. You deal with this in paragraph 9. When your
- 10 first novel came out, I hope you don't mind me dealing
- 11 with this, it's in the public domain, you were a single
- 12 mother; is that correct?
- 13 A. Yes.
- 14 Q. What was your attitude or strategy, if you had one, in
- 15 relation to any publicity first as regards the book and
- secondly protection of your child? Could you assist the 16
- 17 Inquiry with that, please?
- 18 A. Well, I took the view then, and I would like to say that
- 19 I'm not -- certainly wouldn't like to be seen to be
- 20 standing in judgment on anyone who took a different
- 21 view, because there are people I know and respect who 22 have taken a different view on this, but it was my
- 23 belief and remains my belief that children do best when
 - they are kept out of the public eye and that their home
 - life is secure and that means -- it feels like a place Page 40

I had countless requests to be photographed with my daughter. I vividly remember a women's magazine who wanted to take a photograph of me with my broken down typewriter and my daughter on my knee, and when I said that is absolutely not happening, they said, "We won't do the interview then", which was no loss to me. I really did not want that to happen.

I think it's one reason I agreed to appear, because I think this is something I feel very strongly. When you become well-known, and it was a shock to me that I became so well-known so quickly, no one gives you a guidebook. There is nothing that's handed to you to say, "You can do route A, B or C". You have to make it up, to an extent, yourself. And I inferred from the press's often justification for printing photographs of people's families, their justification was so frequently, "Well, you have sold your family life, you've invited them into your home, you've allowed photographers to take pictures of your children, you have in effect used your family as a promotional tool", so I inferred from that that if I do not do those Page 41

1 you support. Would you like to cover those

2 specifically?

3 A. Yes.

4 Q. Please do.

5 A. I think it's relevant to say that I have, on occasions, 6 discussed my own -- not my children's, but my own life, 7 and I suppose broadly speaking there are three areas of 8 my life that are quite private that I have discussed. 9 I wrote the first book as a single parent, and that was common knowledge, and I wasn't ashamed of that and did discuss that, the fact that we had lived on benefits for a time and it had been difficult to find work and find childcare. All these things I did talk about. And latterly I tried to parlay that into doing something meaningful because I became an ambassador for a charity that campaigns for lone parents.

I've also said in my statement that I for quite a long time was patron of the MS Society and I fund research and attempt to raise funds for MS. My mother died of complications from MS. It's not something that I relish talking about, but I talk about it with a purpose and I think that that's one of the upsides, if you like, of being well-known, that you can become a spokesperson for those kind of charities.

Then the last thing I've said in my witness Page 43 things, the privacy of my children will be -- well, at 1 2 that time my only child, will be respected. So I was 3 trying hard to abide by what I thought was the unwritten 4 code. And I would say that I think a significant 5 section of the press have respected my stance on that, 6 but a significant section of the press, in my view, have 7 seen that almost as a challenge.

So I tried very hard to abide by what I thought were the rules, and I failed.

Q. You mention one occasion, but it was the only occasion, paragraph 10 of your witness statement, where you took your daughter along to a book awards and someone did try and take a photograph and that never happened again?

A. No. Well, I never took her anywhere like that again. I vividly remember that occasion. It was -- I was thrilled to have received the award and I couldn't get a babysitter and I took her. I knew other children were going to be there, and it's not that I don't want my children to share these occasions with me, but that experience taught me that can't happen, because, as I say, she was marched into a shot and I physically

22 said, "No I don't want that to happen" and I took her 23 away, and after that I decided clearly the way forward

24 is not to take my children to these kinds of events.

Q. Yes. In paragraph 12, you deal with three causes which Page 42

1 statement, I have talked openly about the fact that 2

I have suffered from depression. I think originally

3 I discussed this in the context of my work, and I do

4 feel quite strongly that as a writer, or any kind of

5 creative person, your life becomes such an important 6 factor in your work, so there are themes in my work that relate to bereavement or depression or things that

8 I myself have experienced.

> So in other words, I was talking about depression not trying to gain sympathy or pity, but there was a purpose. I had created certain creatures in the Harry Potter books that had the effect of depression on those they encountered. But I don't in any sense regret talking about depression because as I say in my statement. I've received a number of letters and so forth, particularly from young people who have been depressed, who find it helpful that people don't treat that as something to be ashamed of.

So yes, I have discussed these matters, but I would say firstly that I think our cultural life would be greatly diminished if creative people weren't allowed to say where they received inspiration and ideas, and secondly I would say I don't think any reasonable person could decide that because I'd discussed these things, my children ought to be long-lensed in swimsuits. I think Page 44

- 1 a reasonable person would see a clear division there.
- 2 Q. Thank you. In paragraph 13 you develop the point which
- 3 you've already touched on, namely the importance of
- 4 a normal childhood for your children.
- 5 A. Mm-hm.
- 6 Q. You mention one incident where there was a note from
- 7 a journalist slipped into your daughter's school bag.
- 8 A. Yes.
- 9 Q. Could you give us a little bit more context?
- 10 A. Yes. My daughter -- this was my eldest daughter, so
- 11 this would have been when I was -- really, in the first
- 12 burst of publicity surrounding me. She was in her first
- 13 year at primary school and I unzipped her school bag in
- 14 the evening and among the usual letters from school and
- 15 debris that every child generates, I found an envelope
- 16 addressed to me and a journalist -- the letter was from

11

- 18 It's my recollection that the letter said that he
- 19 intended to ask a mother at the school to put this in my
- 20 daughter's bag or I don't -- I know no more than that,
- 21 I don't know whether that's how the letter got in my
- 22 daughter's school bag or not, but I can only say that
- 23 I felt such a sense of invasion that my daughter's
- 24 bag -- it's very difficult to say how angry and how --
- 25 how angry I felt that my five-year-old daughter's school children in blankets.

- 2 A. There were two particularly bad periods where it really
- 3 was like being under siege or like a hostage. After the
- 4 birth of each of my subsequent children, for a week it
- 5 was impossible for me to leave the house without being
 - photographed, unless I wanted to be photographed or
- 7 unless I wanted the children to be photographed, and on
- 8 both of those occasions they took up permanent residence
- 9 outside our house and my husband was obviously going to
- 10 work and he was going in and out through them and being
- 11 photographed, but I felt completely trapped in the
- 12 house.
- 13 Of course, that had a massive effect on the 14 children.
- 15 Q. You've made it clear, you clearly state in paragraph 17,
- 16 to press photographers, agencies, perhaps more
- 17 importantly even picture editors at newspapers,
- 18 magazines and other media outlets, how seriously you
- 19 take the privacy of your children. Have you done this
- 20 by making statements to them or how has this been
- 21 achieved?
- 22 A. I think I've gone to such lengths to try and prevent
- 23 photography of my children that they really can be in no
- 24 doubt and I have complained to the PCC and -- as is
- 25 clear later in the statement -- I've been to court.

- 1 was no longer a place of, you know, complete security 2 from journalists.
- 3 Q. Paragraph 14, your position is very clearly stated in 4 the second line:
 - "My husband and I have taken every step we could think of to prevent the children being photographed by press photographers."
- 8 And then you outline some of the measures you've taken. Some are quite general, some are quite specific. 10 Would you care to elaborate on any of those, please, for
- 12 A. Well, we have -- I say in my statement, for example, we 12
- 13 didn't take a honeymoon immediately after we were
- 14 married because we had previously taken a holiday
- 15 together shortly before we were married, and that was
- 16 the occasion on which we were all long-lensed and my
- 17 daughter appeared in the press in her swimsuit. So we
- 18 decided that -- we took -- we went to great lengths to 19 ensure that our wedding itself was private.
- 20 There are many things you can do, and we have tried 21 to do all of them, I would say. We really have tried to
- 22 do all of them to prevent the children being 23 photographed.

us, Ms Rowling?

- 24 Q. In paragraph 15, occasions where paparazzi have been 25
- outside your house, you've had to on occasion hide your Page 46

- 1 I would like to say that particularly with regard to 2 photographers outside our house, I think a very good
- 3 example of this is two journalists from a Scottish
- 4 tabloid took up residence outside our house in a car at
- 5 a time when I was absolutely unaware that there was
- 6 particular interest in me. I didn't have a book coming
- 7 out, I hadn't just given birth, they were just sitting
- 8 there. So I asked someone who works for the public
- 9 relations company that I employ to please ask them what
- 10 they wanted. The response she received was: it's
- 11 a boring day at the office. So my family and I were
- literally under surveillance for their amusement. There
- 13 wasn't even a pretence that there was a story.
- 14 It's difficult to explain to people who haven't experienced it what that feels like. The twist in the
- 15 16 stomach as you wonder what do they want? What do they
- 17 think they have? It's incredibly threatening. It feels
- 18 threatening to have people watching you.
- 19 Q. Then you quite rightly state that the Sun published an 20 article on 25 March 2003, absolutely no criticism of 21 that, but they rightly said:
- 22 "The 38-year-old author is fiercely protective of
- 23 her private life and kept details of her son's birth top 24 secret."
- 25 A. Yes.

- Q. Accurately stating the position. You give us some
- 2 specific examples, starting in paragraph 21. The
- 3 picture in 2001 in OK magazine when your child was then
- 4 eight, I think.
- 5 A. Yes.
- 6 Q. And that was on a -- was it a public beach or a private
- 7 beach? You tell us in your own words.
- 8 A. This is where it all went wrong, because my husband and
- 9 I weren't married then, it was shortly before we were
- 10 married. We were, wrongly, convinced that we were on
- 11 a private beach. We subsequently discovered that no
- 12 beach in Mauritius is private, they're all public by
- 13 law. But the hotel we were staying at had advertised
- 14 that it had its own beach, and we wrongly understood
- 15 from that that it was private. So we believed ourselves
- 16 to be in a private situation.
- 17 My husband, who it is more observant than I,
- 18 clearly, said he was worried about a boat that was
- 19 a little way out while we were all on the beach, and
- 20 I dismissed this and said I was sure everything was fine
- 21 and he was being paranoid. He wasn't being paranoid at
- 22 all. We were being long-lensed and when we arrived home
- 23 it was to photographs of the two of us, not my daughter,
- 24 the photographs including my daughter weren't published
- 25 at first, on the beach.

- Q. It led to a complaint to the PCC? 1
- 2
- 3 Q. You have the adjudication under tab 2 there, Ms Rowling.
- A. Yes.
- 5 O. The complaint was upheld.
- 6 A. Yes.
- 7 Q. As you know.
- 8 A. This was the complaint about the photographs of my
- 9 daughter, including my daughter, yes.
- 10 Q. Absolutely. The public/private beach point was not one 11 which, as it were, lost you the case. You won the case
- 12 because of the particular circumstances.
- 13 If you look at the adjudication, it's in fact set 14 out in your witness statement, but it's right to read it
- 15 out because the PCC may well want me to do so:
- 16 "While the Commission may have regard to its
- 17 previous decision, circumstances will necessarily vary
- 18 from case to case. It therefore considers each 19 complaint on its merits under the Code."
- 20 I think as a lawyer we all understand that.
- 21 "The Code entitles everyone of all ages to respect
- 22 for their private and family life and deems unacceptable
- 23 the use of long lens photography to take pictures of
- 24 people in places where they have a reasonable
- 25 expectation of privacy.

- "In addition, it gives greater protection to 2 children, does not allow photographs of children under
- 3 the age of 16 to be taken where the child's welfare is
- 4 involved, and requires a justification other than the
- 5 fame of a child's parent for publishing material about
- 6 the private life of a child. There may also be an
- 7 exceptional public interest justification for breaching
- 8 these provisions, but none was provided in this case.

"The Commission noted that it was not in dispute that Ms Rowling had gone to considerable lengths in the past to protect her daughter's privacy. This seemed to have been reflected in her selection of a holiday location. It had not been challenged that the beach was not overlooked by other holiday apartments and that the family had gone there in the low season to avoid

"The Commission was not asked to consider whether the photographs of the complainant and her partner breached the Code but it considered in the circumstances outlined above, and given the high level of protection afforded by the Code to children, photographs of the complaint's daughter should not have been taken or published and therefore breached clause 3."

Well, you would presumably agree with every word of that decision, Ms Rowling?

- 1 A. I would agree with every word of that, yes.
- 2 Q. Do we need to go on to the complaint under Rule 6?
- 3 I will if you like.

unwanted attention.

- A. May I say one thing about the photograph of -- that
- 5 photograph of my daughter in her swimsuit?
- 6 Q. Yes, of course.
- 7 A. Unlike an untruth that is in print, for which you can at
- 8 least receive an apology, when an image is disseminated,
 - it can spread around the world like a virus, and that
- 10 photograph of my daughter in her swimsuit was on the
- 11 Internet months after the PCC ruling.

12 Of course I accept the PCC could not adjudicate for

- 13 members of the public who had copied the image and put
- 14 it up on websites, and that they had no mechanism to
- 15 prevent that happening, but I feel that given the fact
- 16 that an image has a life that cannot be recalled once
- 17 you have seen what someone looks like in their swimwear,
- 18 an apology does not remove that knowledge from everyone
- 19 else. An image has a particular property in that way.
- 20
 - So I needed to -- I contacted my lawyers when I realised this image was still out there, and they
- 22 laboriously attempted to remove it wherever they could.
- 23 I'm sure it is still out there. That's the particular
- 24 harm of an image.
- 25 Q. Yes. The analysis of the PCC in line with their Page 52

13 (Pages 49 to 52)

- 1 standard practice is to divide your case up into
- 2 different parts of the Code?
- 3 A. Mm-hm.
- 4 Q. We've been looking at clause 3, which is privacy.
- 5 A. Mm-hm.
- Q. Although the age of your child is of course a relevant 6
- 7 factor, but then they deal separately with clause 6,
- 8 which is the children issue. And on a separate basis
- 9 they uphold the complaint there, which is hardly
- 10 surprising given their reasoning in relation to clause
- 11
- 12 It's noteworthy, though, in relation to clause 3
- 13 that the Commission have weighed up a number of factors 13
- 14 and it's immediately clear which factor is
- 15 determinative, but they considered all the circumstances
- 16 of vour case.
- 17 A. Mm-hm.
- 18 Q. Which some may say demonstrates that these issues are
- 19 not always straightforward ones. Would you accept that
- 20 or not? Although of course you clearly won this case.
- 21 A. Well, where children are concerned, it's my personal
- 22 belief that the issue is not complex at all. A child,
- 23 no matter who their parents are, I think, deserves
- 24 privacy.
- 25 Q. Yes.

- A. They have no choice in who their parents are, they have
- 2 no choice in how their parents behave, so I would
- 3 respectfully say that I think where children are
- 4 concerned, the issue is fairly black and white, and
- 5 I think it would have to be extraordinary public
- 6 interest to justify publication of photographs of
- 7 children, particularly without their consent.
- 8 Q. The next sequence of evidence you're about to give is 9 slightly more complicated legally, and it's the
- 10 Marion(?) Big Pictures litigation. Tell us what
- 11 happened on 8 November 2004 before we look at the legal 11
- 12 consequences of it, Ms Rowling.
- 13 A. This was an occasion -- I was fairly heavily pregnant
- 14 with my third child. Most unusually, my husband had
- 15 a morning off, and this is relevant in that we very
- 16 rarely went out at this time of day together, so it's
- 17 our belief that again people were watching the house on
- 18 the off-chance, without any particular justification.
- 19 Anyway, it so happened that we took a walk to
- 20 a local cafe. Most people, I think, would say that's a
- 21 very innocuous thing to do as a family. And we were
- 22 photographed covertly going to the cafe, didn't realise
- 23 that had happened. Only subsequently did we realise
- 24 when we saw the photos that it must have been happening
- 25 before we hit the cafe and afterwards, because

- 1 afterwards we did then see the man running down the road
- 2 to get a better angle of us with my son. My eldest
- 3 daughter was then at school, so this was now my middle
- 4 child, my son, who was being photographed.
- 5 Q. The photographs were published?
- 6
- 7 Q. And as you explain, one of the newspapers published
- 8 a photograph that clearly showed your son's face.
- A. Mm-hm.
- 10 Q. What had happened, as very often happens, a picture
- 11 agency had taken the photograph, in this particular
- 12 instance it happened to be a company called Big Pictures
- Limited, and they sold it on perhaps to the highest
- 14 bidder?
- 15 A. Yes, that's my understanding of what happened, yes.
- 16 Q. You then brought proceedings and sought an injunction as
- 17 well as damages for breach of confidence and breach of
- 18 privacy. At the first stage before the High Court judge
- 19 your claim was struck out; is that right?
- 20 A. Yes. May I just say before we move on to that point --
- 21 Q. Of course.

- 22 A. There was a reason why I didn't again go to the PCC. It
- 23 had been my hope, perhaps hope more than belief, but my
- 24 strong hope that the PCC adjudication of my eldest
- 25 daughter would send notice to the press that I took it
 - Page 55
 - extremely seriously if they invaded my children's
- 2 privacy. Clearly, the message had not been strong
- 3 enough. Sanctions had not been imposed that would make
- 4 anyone think twice about this and they had again bought
- 5 photographs of my child, a different child but of my
- child. So that's why we didn't go back to the PCC. 6
- 7 That's why now we went a step further and our intention
- 8 was to underline our position on this.
- 9 Q. The argument of the defendant newspaper, which at first
- 10 instance was accepted then was reversed on appeal, was
- that this was a public place, there was no harassment,
- 12 therefore there was no confidence or privacy which could
- 13 be protected?
- 14 A. I disagree, as you would expect, on a number of counts
- 15 there. First of all, that there was no harassment --
- 16 Q. I'm just setting out the argument.
- 17 A. I know.
- 18 Q. As we know, the Court of Appeal came to a different
- 19
- 20 A. They did, but we were extremely disappointed that that
- 21 was the response of the court in the first instance.
- 22 Q. You had a right of appeal, you exercised it, and on
- 23 7 May 2008, the Court of Appeal, presided over by the
- 24 then Master of the Rolls, Sir Anthony Clarke, found in
- 25 your favour. The judgment is of course publicly

- 1 available. We provided it to you in your bundle at
- 2 tab 5.
- 3 A. Yes.
- 4 Q. You, if I may say so, have correctly summarised it in
- 5 your witness statement at paragraph 28.
- 6 A. Yes.
- 7 Q. You say that it is understood, given the way this went
- 8 off procedurally, the Court of Appeal were deciding that
- 9 you had an arguable case. They weren't deciding whether
- you were going to win or lose at the end of the day.
- 11 A. Mm-hm.
- 12 Q. Although the result of the Court of Appeal's judgment is
- that in the end there was a settlement of the case to
- 14 your satisfaction; is that right?
- 15 A. That's correct, yes.
- 16 Q. The judgment does bear reading in full. It is
- a detailed and legally sophisticated judgment. I'm not
- going to take time with it because I couldn't possibly
- do justice to it by summarising it, but you in
- 20 paragraph 28, subparagraphs (a) to (e), have identified
- 21 the key features and of course, unsurprisingly, a key
- feature here is the fact we are concerned with the - rights of a child?
- 24 A. Yes.
- 25 Q. In paragraph 29, you explain why you decided to bring Page 57

- 1 Q. Yes.
- 2 A. So yes, I did decide that it was time to take action
- 3 when we had yet another incident.
- 4 Q. The point at (c), this is at your page 16, you make it
- 5 clear that you hadn't consented. Of course you hadn't
- 6 consented to the photographs being taken. Point (d) is
- 7 the long lens camera point and the reasonable
- 8 expectation of privacy point.
- 9 A. Yes.
- 10 Q. It might be said that the very fact that you need to use
- a long lens gives rise to some sort of presumption that you're invading privacy, but at least that's a factor
- which may be relevant.
- 14 What about your point (e) at page 17 that you were
- not contacted prior to publication? What difference
- might that have made, do you think?
- 17 A. If I had been told what was coming, I think I could have
- said, well, I will take steps, possibly through the
- courts, possibly through the PCC, I don't know what it
- would have been, if I had been notified, to prevent
- 21 publication. We could have had a conversation. I could
- 22 have restated my reasons for not wishing the children to
 - be photographed.

- I mean, again, I think the point here is that like
- 25 a lot of people who have agreed to give evidence at this Page 59
- this case. You've given us one of the reasons: you'd
- 2 lost confidence in the PCC and this was really the
- 3 failure of the press to respond positively to the
- 4 adjudication following the Hello publication in 2001?
- 5 A. Yes.
- 6 Q. That's your second reason. Your first reason at 29(a),
- 7 please, Ms Rowling, might you elaborate on that for us,
- 8 please?
- 9 A. There had been another incident shortly after my son was
- born, so I had at this point a 10-year-old daughter and
- 11 a virtually newborn baby, so we were besieged for a week
- and then I believed that the photographers had
- disappeared, and for the first time in a week I was able
- 14 to get out of the house with my daughter and the baby.
- 15 And we were long-lensed and on this occasion I saw the
- photographer taking the picture from across the street,
- 17 I pulled my daughter behind me because I didn't want her
- photographed, and I rather absurdly gave chase. How
- 19 I thought I was going to outrun a 20-something paparazzo
- while pushing a buggy ...
- 21 My daughter was, "Calm down Mum, calm down, don't be
- silly, it doesn't matter", but it mattered hugely to me
- 23 that the moment I set foot outside the door, my children
- were being photographed again.
- 25 So the cumulative effect, it becomes quite draining.

 Page 58

- 1 Inquiry, we are not looking for special treatment.
- We're looking for normal treatment. I don't regard
- 3 myself as entitled to more than; I'm simply asking for
- 4 the same as. And I'm particularly asking for that on
- 5 behalf of my children.
- 6 So yes, if I had been notified of the intention to
 - print another photograph of my child, which neither
- 8 I nor they had consented to, I would have been given an
- 9 opportunity to explain my position again to the
- newspaper in question, and one would hope that would
- have carried some weight, but again I wasn't notified so
- 12 I couldn't do that.
- 13 Q. Though your position had been so clearly stated before,
- one wonders why there was any need to restate it because
- 15 everybody knew what it was.
- 16 A. This is exactly right. I mean, short of getting
- 17 a skywriter, what can you do?
- 18 Q. In paragraph 30, Ms Rowling, there were further
- 19 photographs.
- 20 A. Yes.
- 21 Q. Presumably long lens photographs, is this right?
- 22 A. Yes.
- 23 Q. Your holiday in the US in July 2006, photographs of your
- family and your three children, isn't that right?
- 25 A. Yes, and I would have to say here that I felt an idiot, Page 60

As I've already explained, on the first occasion I believed it was a private beach. On the second occasion, I think my guard was really down. We'd gone on holiday, we hadn't encountered any press. I assumed, wrongly, that we were -- I forgot myself for a few moments, and the result was that I was long-lensed again.

Initially, there were photographs only of me, and while I don't accept that -- well, to call a spade a spade, I'm a writer, so I don't really think that it's of any relevance or of any public interest to know what I look like in a swimsuit, but the general feeling of people around me was, "Leave it", and I felt the same way. I felt that I wasn't going to be able to succeed in preventing publication of that photograph of me. I was very concerned because when I saw the photograph, I knew they must have photographs of the children because I knew that I was in very close proximity to the children were so upset by this.

So my daughter was being characterised as some kind of bully, as using information from me to upset people, and there was not one word of truth in it. There had been no complaint. My daughter could not possibly have told anyone what happened in book 7, because at her own request she didn't want to know. So it -- I mean, what -- I am very wary of speculating, but I have been on the receiving end of stories being put to one that probably, I would guess, the journalist is aware aren't true, but the strategy seems to be that they will surprise someone into saying something that they can then print. Because I would say why not contact me? But possibly there was a hope that the headmaster might inadvertently reveal that she had said something, or inadvertently reveal "That's not what I heard, I heard she said he survives". Who knows? But again, to approach my daughter's school to me was outrageous. Q. This was the time of wild speculation as to what 19 20 happened at the end of the last book?

21 A. That's right, yes.

22 Q. And then in subparagraph (c), November 2007, more 23 photographs, this time outside a coffee house I think in 24 Edinburgh.

25 A. I had taken my youngest daughter out actually to buy her Page 63

the children, and agreed to destroy it. Which I believe was done. I've never seen that photograph published.

3 Q. Thank you. Did that give rise to a PCC complaint?

A. I don't -- I think -- my recollection is that we didn't

5 complain to the PCC and I think that that was because --

6 Q. We've seen your evidence -- children all of that afternoon.

7 A. Yes. My confidence in the PCC was fairly low at this 8 point, so I decided my embarrassment wasn't worth the 9 stress of going through the complaint, really.

10 Q. There was another incident, paragraph 30, 11 subparagraph (b) at page 19, that in July 2007 12 a journalist from the Scottish Sun contacted the 13 headmaster of your eldest daughter's school.

14 A. Yes. There are -- this is one of the incidents about 15 which I feel most outrage. A journalist contacted --16 did not contact me. I'm a highly contactable person.

17 I have an agent, there's a PR firm that represents me, 18 I have publishers. There are numerous ways to contact

19 me very easily. No one contacted me, they went directly

20 to the headmaster of my child's school. And as I say in

21 my witness statement, the claim by the journalist was

22 that my eldest daughter had distressed fellow pupils by

23 revealing that Harry Potter died in the final

24 Harry Potter book, and that the headmaster had received

25 complaints from students and parents because their Page 62

1 an advent calendar. She was quite excited. We became 2 aware that we were being photographed from across the 3 street and someone was with me and crossed the street 4 and said to the photographer, "She's with her child, 5 please stop", and the photographer refused.

I don't know whether they got a clear shot of my youngest daughter, I've no idea. They claimed that they only saw her legs in the developed photographs. I don't

The justification that I heard on that occasion was they believed I was wearing a fur coat. I was wearing a woollen coat that I've never worn in public again.

13 Q. The impact on your children, are you able to assist the Inquiry with some insight into that?

15 A. There's the particular impact on a given day. For 16 example, my youngest daughter was very upset that we 17 couldn't get her advent calendar because the 18 photographer was clearly not going to desist, he'd 19 refused in so many words. We had nowhere to go so we 20 got back in the car and we went home again.

> On a general note, the sense of being often unable to leave your house or move freely is obviously prejudicial to a normal family life, and certainly all three of my children have been aware of being suddenly pulled behind me or I will split from the family group Page 64

- 1 because I'm aware there's a photographer there, so 2 you're hoping to draw them off: "You take the kids that 3 way, I'll go this way".
- 4 So there's a general edginess sometimes when you are 5 aware that there are people in the vicinity, and 6
 - sometimes when there aren't, you start becoming jumpy.
- 7 You start thinking that the person behaving in
- 8 a peculiar manner near your house might be concealing
 - a long lens. They might not be at all, but it's a very
- 10 unnerving feeling to know that you're being watched. So
- 11 obviously that impacts my children.
- 12 Q. Yes. We now move on to the second topic, which is 13 privacy of home life, and this is related, of course, to
- 14 the issue of personal security, which is obviously an
- 15 obvious matter of concern to you.
- 16 Can I deal with the matters in chronological order?
- 17 Paragraph 41, I think, first.
- 18 A. Yes.

- 19 Q. There may be a typographical error in the title.
- 20 I think the right date is January 2005; is that right?
- 21 A. That -- I think so, yes.
- 22 Q. There was an article published in the Scottish Daily
- 23 Mail about conversion works which were taking place at
- 24 your home. Your full address, without the postcode, was
- 25 published, together with a large photograph of the house
 - Page 65
- 1 in question. Obviously, even without the postcode, the
- 2 full address was enough to identify which house we're
- 3 talking about.
- 4 A. Yes.
- 5 O. It's obvious. So that it's clear, what happened as
- 6 a result of this?
- A. Well, as a direct -- sorry, could you ask me that 7
- 8 question again? As a direct result of the publication
- 9 of this photograph?
- 10 Q. Yes.
- 11 A. We asked them -- we went to the newspaper and asked that 11
- 12 they remove those details from their website and so on,
- 13 and I believe they did do that.
- 14 Q. Yes. Then in July 2005, this time the Mirror -- I think
- 15 we're south of the border now, Ms Rowling; is that
- 16 right?
- 17 A. Yes.
- Q. Published an article printing the street names and 18
- 19 photographs of three of your properties in England and
- 20 Scotland just before Harry Potter 6, this was.
- 21 A. Yes.
- 22 Q. No public interest in that. And your concern
- 23 additionally was that the article showed certain
- 24 security features which you quite rightly had in place?
- A. Yes. For obvious reasons I don't wish to go into detail Page 66

- here and now, although I'm happy to provide those
- 2 details if they're relevant. But like virtually
- 3 everyone in the public eye, I have on occasion been the
- 4 target of unbalanced individuals. I don't want to go
- 5 into details.
- 6 I mention this because my desire to keep the precise 7 address of the property where I live with my family out 8 of national newspapers is not because I'm being starry
- 9 or precious; it's because on a number of occasions we
- 10 have needed to -- the police have been involved because
- 11 of incidents or even threats.
- 12 So I think it's reasonable of me to wish that the 13 papers would refrain from making my whereabouts so very,
- 14 very identifiable. Clearly I have to live somewhere,
- 15 and we've taken all reasonable precautions in this
- 16 matter. Of course locally it may be known where my
- 17 house is, but again I think a reasonable person would
- 18 see a difference between my neighbours knowing which is
- 19 my house, my children's friends knowing where we live
- 20 and anyone who reads a national newspaper being able to 21 find us with extraordinary ease.
- 22 Q. What happened in this particular case, and we'll deal
 - with the PCC element in a moment, Ms Rowling,
- 24 paragraph 43 of your witness statement, the paper's
- 25 position was that the addresses were in the public
 - Page 67
 - domain, they could be found on the Internet.
- 2 A. In fact, we've taken every step that one can to make
- 3 sure that we are not listed in the usual ways on
- 4 registries that exist online. We can't prevent any
- 5 individual putting our address online, but if that's the
- 6 justification a newspaper's using for then reprinting it
- 7 in the national press, I think that's a fairly flimsy
- 8 justification, but we have taken every reasonable
- 9 precaution we can think of to protect our own privacy.
- 10 Q. Then you point out that the -- this is the third line of
 - paragraph 4 -- the paper continued to disregard your feelings because five days later it published a picture
- 13 of your eldest daughter as a baby?
- 14 A. I would like to emphasise that what I'm about to say
- 15 does not apply to the whole of the British press, but it
- 16 is my experience with certain sectors of the British
- 17
- press. If you lock horns with them in this way, if you 18
- protest or you make a complaint, then you can expect 19
- some form of retribution fairly quickly, and I thought 20
- the fact that in this case a picture of my child was put 21 into the papers, so very quickly after I'd asked them
- 22 not to print my address, I thought that was spiteful,
- 23 actually. Just spiteful.
- 24 Q. We move to a different title. The Evening Standard in
- 25 October 2007 published photographs and information about Page 68

17 (Pages 65 to 68)

- 1 your homes, including descriptions of the properties,
- details as to their history, details of their location
- 3 and details of security arrangements and pictures.
- 4 A. Yes.
- 5 Q. There was a complaint at least at a legal level. What
- 6 was the upshot of that?
- 7 A. As my witness statement says, they wrote a one-line
- 8 letter back saying they had noted the contents of my
- 9 letter.
- 10 Q. Yes?
- 11 A. Again, this doesn't apply to the whole of the press, but
- the attitude seems to be utterly cavalier.
- 13 Indifference. What does it matter? You're famous;
- 14 you're asking for it.
- 15 Q. I think the final series of articles on this sort of
- theme, October/November 2007, the Mirror, the
- 17 Daily Record and the Scottish Mail on Sunday each or all
- published articles that identified the precise location
- of your home in the Scottish countryside, showing the
- 20 name of your home, the name of the neighbouring property
- and the name of the small town in which you lived?
- 22 A. Yes. And when we complained about this, the argument
- was, well, this information is in the public domain, but
- 24 the joke of that to me is they put it into the public
- domain. What they were effectively saying was you can't Page 69
 - complain that we are printing photographs and the
- 2 address because we've already printed photographs and
- 3 the address.

- 4 Q. Just so that's made clear, it had been put in the public
- 5 domain the day before by the Mail on Sunday?
- 6 A. Yes, about which we'd complained.
- 7 Q. About which you complained. Therefore it's entirely
- 8 disingenuous, you say, for the Scottish Mail to rely on
- 9 that argument. Just so we're absolutely clear, they're
- part of the same newspaper group. Is that correct?
- 11 A. Exactly right, yes.
- 12 Q. But does that disingenuous argument apply with equal
- force to the Mirror and the Daily Record?
- 14 A. The Mirror and the Daily Record, as I said in my witness
- statement, they agreed to remove the articles from their
- archives, but they gave no guarantee that they wouldn't
- publish the information again at some point.
- 18 Q. There were complaints to the PCC resulting from some of - these events, not all of them.
- 20 A. Yes.
- 21 Q. So that we understand the position, it's paragraph 48 of
- your witness statement. Going back to the Mirror's
- publication in July 2005, which is what you talk about
- in paragraph 42, your complaint there was upheld in
- part, I think. We have the adjudication under tab 3.
 - Page 70

- 1 A. Yes. The key point on which they disagreed with me,
- 2 they said they hadn't given enough information to
- 3 identify the property, and I strongly disagree. Indeed,
- 4 people said to me afterwards, "Oh, I know where you live
- 5 now, it is ..." and then they described -- from the
- 6 information in the newspaper they were able entirely
- 7 accurately to identify which house we'd bought, so
- 8 I must disagree with the papers on that matter.
- Q. The reasoning of the PCC, so that we're clear about it,
- is the part of the case which was upheld, the Commission
- were satisfied that the photograph and the caption
- 12 contained sufficient information to identify the exact
- 13 location of the property.
- 14 A. Mm.
- 15 Q. So that was objectionable because it was too precise.
- 16 A. Yes.
- 17 Q. Their argument was that in relation to the two other
- house, it wasn't sufficiently precise and therefore
- 19 there wasn't a breach because one would have to carry
- 20 out further enquiries in order to pinpoint the exact
- 21 location?

- 22 A. But I feel that in this respect the PCC isn't seeing the
- wood for the trees. All it needs is for three or four
- 24 newspapers to provide partial information and one is
- virtually giving a guided tour to my house.
 - Page 71
 - So if each complaint is going to be struck down
- 2 because well it's almost your exact address but not
- 3 quite so we don't think that's good enough, then I feel
- 4 that we're all in a fairly vulnerable position.
- 5 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: It's called a jigsaw identification.
- 6 A. Precisely the case. And I think exactly right. I don't
- 7 feel that the PCC is taking a -- is I think a little
- 8 conveniently not taking a holistic view of the matter.
- 9 MR JAY: We see a similar theme, whether it's right or wrong
- or not, and you clearly say it's wrong, in relation to
- the 2007 publications under our tab 4, because your
- complaints are not upheld, really for the self-same
- reason, that the identification is not sufficiently
- 14 specific.
- 15 A. Mm.
- 16 Q. If you just look at the four corners of the article
- itself, but you say the answer to that is let's feed in
- other information which is readily available, some of it
- 19 has been disseminated by the press itself, then it
- 20 doesn't take too many steps or filling in of the
- 21 pieces --
- 22 A. Literally a click of the mouse. And in fact, when we
 - bought a new house in Edinburgh, one newspaper gave
- 24 really -- oh no, I'm sorry, I'm mistaken, it was our
- previous house in Edinburgh. Yes, in fact I believe it Page 72

18 (Pages 69 to 72)

- 1 was this precise case we've just been talking about. 1 Q. The figure that Mr Whittamore charged for his services 2 The PCC said there wasn't sufficient information to 2 you give as £655. Are you able to assist us in general 3 identify the precise location of the Edinburgh house. 3 terms as to the nature of the information he had 4 However, someone, I believe abroad, saw the article and 4 blagged? If you don't want to tell us, please don't, 5 said, "But I know exactly ..." they instantly knew which 5 but just so we get a general idea, perhaps, of the 6 house it was and they said, "I used to live there", and 6 nature of the information. If there's any concern about 7 7 gave the whole address plus the postcode. So they were doing so, I won't press it. 8 able, on the basis of what they'd read, to put 8 A. I'm happy to say what I know, and I say that because 9 everything into the public domain, and again I feel that 9 I don't know part of what he had. He appears to have 10 little if any weight is given to that, or has been given 10 been making investigations with people regarding me, 11 to that when the PCC looks at these matters. 11 with people whose names I don't recognise, so I don't 12 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Did that person put the address and 12 know what he was after there and I don't know what he 13 postcode? 13 was searching for. But the bulk of what he appeared to 14 A. They put the entire address, down to the postcode. And 14 be trying to do was to track down people related to me. 15 actually, I think it was done quite innocently by that 15 For what purpose, I couldn't tell you, but, yes, he 16 person, I think they were really excited to realise that 16 seemed to be making extensive enquiries about my 17 I was living in the house they'd lived in previously, 17 extended family. 18 I think it was a young person who did it, but the whole 18 Q. Thank you. Whereas you say in paragraph 52 that you're 19 address was on the Internet within two days and my 19 awaiting a substantive response from the ICO, have 20 lawyer was able to contact that person and say to them, 20 I understood your evidence correctly that you've now 21 "Please could you delete this", which they did, but 21 received some sort of response? 22 again, in the meantime, how many people had seen the 22 A. There is a -- I may need to ask my lawyers to provide 23 whole address? 23 details on this, but I believe there is additional 24 MR JAY: Just to understand where you say the boundary lines 24 information to come. 25 are. What do you say is permissible and what do you say 25 Q. It may or may not be important. You've given us, Page 73 Page 75 is impermissible on this issue? 1 I think, the gist of what you've seen so far. 1 2 A. Yes. 2 A. On this issue, I don't see why it is in the public 3 3 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Hang on, Mr Jay. Mr Sherborne, is interest to know exactly where I live. I mean, clearly 4 I can't put an invisibility cloaking device over myself 4 there anything of significance? 5 MR SHERBORNE: I was simply going to confirm the position. and my house, nor do I wish to. I want to live in as 6 6 As I understand it, Ms Rowling has seen some of the normal a way as possible, but it is not normal for 7 7 documentation, but as I understand it equally, there is anyone, famous or not famous, for their address to be 8 known to millions of newspaper readers or users of the 8 more to come. LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: If it's so extensive, I don't want to 9 9 Internet. So that is where I would draw the line. 10 10 know the details but it might affect what I am thinking I would, if I may, make one further point. As 11 about, then doubtless you can provide the information at 11 I said, I moved out of the first house we ever owned 12 because the photographs of the house precisely 12 some stage. I don't want the details.
- 13 identified its location. There was the number on the 14 door and the street name was on the building. So an 15 image can do as much, if not more, damage than even 16 a postal address in print.
- 17 Q. Thank you. The third area you wish to address is the 18 issue of fair treatment in the press. This starts at 19 paragraph 50, Ms Rowling.
- 20 In paragraph 51, you're referring to a report in the 21 Independent newspaper regarding the Operation Motorman
- 22 investigation. Do you believe you were the target of
- 23 Mr Whittamore, is that correct?
- 24 A. Well, I -- yes. I've now had the files made available
- 25 to me, so I know that I was a target, yes. Page 74

- 13 MR SHERBORNE: I understand.
- 14 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: But the broad width and length of the
- 15 information could be valuable, but only if you feel it
- 16 takes me further.
- 17 MR SHERBORNE: Sir, indeed. I understand that.
- LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Thank you.
- 19 MR JAY: In paragraph 53, you give another example of
- 20 blagging which is quite characteristic because we heard
- 21 similar evidence from somebody this morning, namely
- 22 someone purportedly from the post office phoning you and
- 23 explaining they have a package but no address.
- 24 A. I recalled while preparing this statement two instances
- 25 of blagging that I know about. When I was blagged,

1 I actually realised halfway through giving personal Q. Can I deal with issues of as much commercial confidence 1 2 details that I was being blagged. It was shortly after 2 as personal privacy, leaked information, Ms Rowling, 3 we moved into our first house that we owned, and 3 your books. 4 I believe the journalist didn't know where I had moved 4 Paragraph 58, I think we're now on Harry Potter 5, 5 to. Somehow, I don't know how, had my telephone but did 5 as you say. In June 2003, the Sun apparently came into 6 not know my exact address. So I received a phone call 6 possession of two copies of the book which were stolen 7 7 allegedly from the post office and this man said to me, from the printers. 8 "I am from the post office, I've got a package here for 8 A. Yes. 9 you, what's your address?" So I began to speak and then 9 Q. Can you tell us a little bit about what happened next, 10 10 I said, "Wait, wait a moment, you're from the post please? 11 office, well, what does it say on the package?" And 11 A. I believe the story was that an unemployed gentleman had 12 there was a moment's embarrassed silence and he hung up. 12 found a copy of Harry Potter in a field. I find that 13 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: The other story -- the story we heard 13 story rather difficult to believe, but there you are. 14 I think in your absence from another witness this 14 So we had taken every reasonable step to try and 15 morning, was that he said, "Well, the mobile phone has 15 prevent prepublication leaks, and now the manuscript was 16 been left on the ripped paper." And in that case, the 16 in the possession of a tabloid newspaper, so we took 17 information was provided. Anyway. 17 out -- I'm not an expert on this by any means, but we 18 A. I can understand -- well, I --18 took out what's call a John Doe injunction against LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: So your account has resonance with 19 19 unknown persons to prevent -- because we didn't know how 20 some evidence that we actually heard this morning. 20 many journalists at this point had the manuscript -- to 21 A. I understand. Well, my husband was less fortunate than 21 prevent publication of the contents. 22 me, and we were not married. We had just started 22 Q. Those representing Associated News wish it to be made 23 a relationship. My husband had just moved jobs from one 23 clear that as far as they understand the position, the 24 24 hospital to another. Fortunately for the blagger, but injunction was sought and obtained only in relation to 25 not fortunately for Neil, the blagger pretended to be 25 the activities of the Sun and not the Daily Mail and the Page 77 Page 79 Mirror. Are you aware of the exact position there, 1 from the tax office, and my husband was expecting 1 2 2 Ms Rowling? a communication from the tax office so that he could 3 3 A. Well, it's my belief, but I would need to check with my adjust his tax code. 4 Anyway, he's a busy man at a hospital, he gets 4 lawyers, that a John Doe injunction was taken out 5 a call, he takes the call, they say we're from the tax 5 against whoever may have a copy of the information. 6 office, and he gave them everything. He confirmed his 6 MR CAPLAN: I think Mr Jay, an update, there was 7 address, he confirmed his pay rate, he confirmed 7 a subsequent note I have given. That's not our 8 I believe his National Insurance number. And it was the 8 position. The position is it was obtained because 9 9 I think Ms Rowling and her advisers did not know who next day or the day after that he opened his front door 10 10 at 6 am to go to the hospital and flashes went off in might be in possession of the book, and as far as 11 11 his face and the paparazzi had found him. Associated Newspapers is concerned, although the book 12 So that was a not very nice introduction to being 12 was offered to us, it was rejected immediately, it was 13 13 never taken up, that offer, and in court the judge involved with someone famous. 14 14 Oh, I should say that there was subsequently accepted that it had been offered but completely 15 a legitimate contact with the tax office, so that's how 15 rejected by Associated Newspapers. 16 we know that the first call was not legitimate. 16 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Very good, thank you very much. LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Right. 17 MR JAY: That was my fault, because Mr Caplan did provide me 17 with an updated question in manuscript and I --18 MR JAY: And then you touch on phone hacking issues. The 18 19 19 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Missed it. Don't worry, we'll cope position at the moment is that as far as you are aware, 20 but only on the basis of information and evidence 20 with it. 21 21 examined to date, there's nothing to connect you with MR JAY: I'm sorry about that as well, Ms Rowling. I messed 22 22 phone hacking; is that right? that one up a bit. 23 23 A. No. I barely used a mobile phone in the 1990s, which It continues in paragraph 60. What happened with 24 now seems like a very smart move, but it wasn't 24 the return of the copies? Can you help us there, 25 25 deliberate. please? Page 78 Page 80

- A. A great deal happened. There was no straightforward 1 2 handover of the book.
- 3 A review of the book was published, which really was
- 4 a way of publishing some of the contents, paraphrased.
- 5 This in spite of the fact that they had promised not to
- 6 reveal -- in court, they had promised not to reveal
- 7 anything that was in the book. The book was
- 8 photographed, those photographs obviously went into the
- 9 paper. So we had to go back to court to try and enforce
- 10 co-operation with the original injunction.
- 11 Q. You tell us that the Sun were trying to turn this into
- 12 a photo opportunity --
- A. Yes. This is to me a classic example of -- again 13
- 14 I accept this is far from being all journalists, but
- 15 there is a section of the press that sees opportunities
- 16 in a situation like this and I felt I was being
- 17 blackmailed. What they really wanted was a photograph
- 18 of me gratefully receiving back the stolen manuscript.
- 19 So I was being asked to pose with the book.
- 20 Q. It was a similar sort of sequence of events, but perhaps
- 21 less serious, but you'll tell me if that's right, in
- 22 relation to another book. I'm not sure whether it's the
- 23 sixth or the seventh --

15

24 A. That's the sixth one, yes. Yes, I would agree that this 25 was less serious.

Page 81

- This is opinion. My opinion is that if one shows 1
- 2 oneself prepared to take a stand, then I suppose I would
- 3 say that the press has maybe been wary of me latterly,
- 4 in that they -- on certain issues, obviously my
- 5 children's privacy being the most important one, but
- 6 that -- well, crudely, I suppose, they're wary because
- 7 they're aware that I can afford to pay for expensive
- 8 lawyers, and that's a sad reflection on the state of
 - affairs, that -- I mean, I therefore receive a kind of
- 10 treatment on occasion that I think is not available to
- 11 the ordinary person.
- 12 So it was a less serious situation on the sixth
- 13 book, I think because they had seen -- I guess because
- 14 they had seen that we were prepared to defend the book
 - vigorously in 2003.
- 16 Q. Thank you. I will move on to false attribution in
- 17 paragraph 63. In Hello magazine an article in 2001, or
- 18 thereabouts, claiming to be a rare and exclusive
- 19 interview.
- 20 A. Yes.
- 21 Q. The one which never occurred?
- A. Yes. I think people might think that's quite a banal 22
- 23 occurrence, but in fact it's not. If you are trying, as
- 24 I am, to make it quite clear that my personal life -- my
- 25 family life is out of bounds, then the perception that Page 82

- I had granted an interview to a magazine that is
- primarily notorious for going into people's houses, photographing them with their families, hearing personal 3
- 4 details of their private lives, and I censor no one by
- 5 the way for doing those interviews. I don't think
- 6
- that's an awful thing to do. It simply happens that 7 that's not something I wish to do.
- 8 So the magazine asserting that I had done it,
- 9 I feared, would then be used as justification for
- 10 further invasion: "Well you gave an interview to Hello
- 11 magazine, you are prepared to sell your private life in
- 12 this way", and as is clear from my statement, what they
- 13 had done was taken that article from a different paper
- 14 and repackaged it. From a different source, and
- 15 repackaged it.
- 16 O. And then you had a lot of difficulty with the apology.
- 17 It took time and you feel they reneged on the agreement
- 18 you had with them and it was published less prominently
- 19 than had been assented to?
- A. Yes, they were very, very difficult to deal with on that 20
- 21 occasion. They dragged their feet for a very long time,
- 22 they didn't want to admit that they'd done what we knew
 - they had done, and the apology was minuscule.
- 24 Q. In paragraph 60, a claim in defamation. Would you tell
- 25 us a little bit about that? One of your characters,

Page 83

I think it was.

23

19

25

- 2 A. Yes. This was really quite horrible because it caused
- 3 real distress to my oldest child.
- 4 The Daily Express published an article saying that
- 5 I had based an unpleasant character in the Harry Potter
- 6 books on my ex-husband. This was wholly untrue, and
- 7 their justification for writing this was that I had said
- 8 while doing a book reading with a group of children, and
- 9 I remember the event, it was at the Edinburgh Book
- 10 Festival and it was very pleasant. I'm often asked do
- 11 you base characters on real people? It was a really
- 12 throw-away comment. I said, humorously, that the
- 13 character of Gilderoy Lockhart was based on someone with
 - whom I had lived briefly.
- 15 Now, that's true, but that person probably can't
- 16 even remember that we were ever flatmates. This is
- 17 a long time ago. So I felt quite clean about saying
- 18 that, I'd identified no one, and as I say, the
 - acquaintanceship was so fleeting I didn't feel I was
- 20 doing anything damaging.
- 21 Again, this was in the context of speaking to
- 22 children about the creation of a book. So I was relaxed
- 23 and not expecting what came next, which was this
- 24 article. Not only did they say that I'd based this
 - character on my ex-husband, they were clearly depicting me as the kind of vindictive person who would use a best-selling book to vilify anyone against whom they had a grudge, which is simply nonsense.

So I had to sit down with my eldest daughter, because they're talking about her biological father, and say to her this isn't true, I would never do this.

There is no point of resemblance between this man and 8 your father. And while she was very understanding about this, and said, "I know you wouldn't, I know you didn't,

10 I believe you, I believe you", it was a horrible

11 conversation to have to have. And, of course, there's

12 what happens outside the house. There's what happens

13 when other children, many of whom have read

14 Harry Potter, told my daughter that her father was the

15 basis for this unpleasant character, and that can't be

16 recalled. Because children don't tend to read the 17 apologies newspapers put in. So that misinformation

18 caused real emotional hurt, which I'm sure is a matter

19 of indifference to the person who wrote it, but as you

20 can tell, quite a big matter to me.

21 Q. Yes. That resulted in an apology. Can you tell us

22 anything about the apology, for example where it was 23

printed and its size and what might have been said? 24 A. I truly can't remember, but I know that it was small and around the house. There was no question of throwing money at anyone to make them leave. We had a very amicable relationship with the seller who moved out in the normal time period and actually I never held any kind of Christmas party that year because we'd just moved in. So it was nonsense from beginning to end.

Again, some people might think it's not a big deal. Firstly, it's depicting me as a very arrogant person who is unaware of the value of money, who uses it to bend anyone to her will, which I do not believe to be the

But it's also you're putting a version of -- or the newspaper is putting a version of me and my family into the public domain that has an effect on my children, who are then asked about the house that we bought when we'd barely looked at it and the huge party we had and how your mother just throws money at people to move them out of their houses, and this is hurtful stuff.

19 Q. There were a number of apologies but you point out that 20 four weeks later, the Scottish Times published the very 21 same defamatory allegations, later denied that they were 22 defamatory --

A. I think this just builds a picture of how very difficult it is to stop defamatory articles of any nature, because no prior notification that this was going to be printed, Page 87

the original article did. 1

2 Q. Paragraph 61, we've covered. Paragraph 62, a separate

3 defamation issue. Can you help us with that one,

5 A. Now this one was untrue from beginning to end. There 6 was an allegation printed that I was taking legal action

7 against a man who was writing fan literature. It was

8 simply untrue, and in fact I had never heard of him

9 until this accusation was made against me.

10 Q. Thank you. Then another defamatory article, paragraph 63, published in the Mail on Sunday, Hello, 11

the Herald, the Scottish Sun, the Scottish Daily Express

13 and the Daily Star Scotland, concerning the purchase of 14 a house in town. The basic point there is that you paid

15 well over the odds, it was alleged, in order to force

16 the seller to move out early.

A. Yes. The original story said that I walked into this 17 18 house, which in actual fact is our family home now, that

19 I glanced at two rooms, that I then offered a vast

20 amount of money to get the owner out virtually instantly

21 because I wished to host a Christmas party in this

22 house. It's utterly, utterly untrue.

23 We looked around the house in exactly the way any

24 normal person would look around a house they were

25 intending to live in, we took our children to look

1 no opportunity to correct the story, but also it does 2 spread like fire. You're stamping in one area and

3 someone else is lighting a fire over here, and you say

4 to them person A already accepted it's completely

5 untrue -- "Well, we don't accept that it's untrue".

Q. Thank you. Then the last matter you cover,

7 paragraph 64, there was an inquiry by the Sunday Times

8 of your PR agents -- this is quite recent -- about the 9 development of your Scottish urban home and the type of 10 trees you were going to use. Can you tell us about 11 that?

A. This was quite a bizarre story, really. We did receive 12 13 notice on this occasion that the Scottish Sunday Times wished to run an article about what we were planting in 14 15 our garden, and I couldn't really understand why that 16 was of any public interest at all.

> Then we were told that they were running an article on a non-native species and their environmental impact, and as everything we were using in our garden had been in Scotland for about 5,000 years, I still couldn't 21 understand why we were being referenced in the article.

22 When we said, "We're not minded to let you come and 23 look at our trees", the journalist said, "I will come and see for myself then. I'll come onto your property",

I assume. The effect was quite aggressive.

- 1 Q. Yes.
- 2 A. We've actually -- if you don't mind, we've skated over
- an article that I'm finding it difficult to find it in
- 4 my bundle here.
- 5 Q. Of course.
- 6 A. It was about my husband, I think, in the Sunday Mirror.
- 7 O. Certainly.
- 8 A. I'm going to need to find it, but I really did want to
- 9 talk about that one.
- 10 Q. What we'll do, we'll find that, come back to that, allow
- 11 you to deal with that in your own way and as completely
- 12 as you like.
- 13 A. Thank you.
- 14 Q. I'm sure a note will be passed to me.
- What I'd like to do is put to you a point that
- News International on behalf of the Sunday Times wish me
- to raise in relation to the non-native species article.
- 18 A. Oh yes, I'm interested to know.
- 19 Q. Then we'll come back to the Sunday Mirror if that's
- 20 acceptable. Have you been shown a copy of the piece in
- the Sunday Times?
- 22 A. I wasn't aware that anything had appeared.
- 23 Q. Yes. (Handed)
- 24 A. Thank you very much.
- $\,\,$ Q. This is a general piece, apparently. Indeed, as we can

Page 89

- see, in the Sunday Times on 14 August of this year:
- 2 "Garden experts wage war on plant invaders."
- 3 A. Yes, I see myself in this little article.
- 4 Q. The general theme is that apparently the Royal Britannic
- 5 Garden in Edinburgh is to investigate the behaviour of
- 6 every plant in its collection amid concern that more
- 7 than 100 species may pose a threat to wildlife. These
- 8 presumably are non-native species.
- 9 On the right-hand side of the column you'll see:
- 10 "Among those with a fondness for non-native plants
- 11 is JK Rowling who plans to introduce several varieties
- at her Edinburgh home", then they are listed. "They
- include holm oak evergreen, native to the Mediterranean,
- which is invading southeast England. It's listed as
- 15 a plant to avoid."
- So the suggestion there is that these plants or
- trees aren't yet there, but you're planning to introduce
- them. I think that's clear from what's being said. Do
- 19 you have a comment on that?
- 20 A. I don't -- it's just ludicrous. I truly ... I find it
- 21 ludicrous. How is this -- I mean, I do not recognise
- these plants they say I'm going to plant, and as I've
- been very involved in the garden, clearly I've either
- 24 overlooked something important or they are mistaken and 24
- 25 I tend to think they are mistaken.

Page 90

- 1 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: It goes on, and I appreciate this is
- 2 rather difficult if you haven't seen this:
- 3 "A spokesman for Patience & Highmore [I'm not going
- 4 to ask whether you recognise the name], the architecture
- 5 firm helping to design Rowling's garden, said the
- 6 council planning department is happy with the design and
- 7 selection of species."
- 8 Well, there it is.
- 9 MR JAY: News International's position is that the
- information they obtained was from a publicly available
- 11 planning document, which may well be consistent with
- what we see in the final paragraph.
- 13 A. Yes.
- 14 Q. And secondly that you were, they say, offered an - opportunity to comment through your PR company, and the
- 16 comment came from the architects, as we see reported.
- 17 A. Yes, I see.
- 18 Q. Does that make sense?
- 19 A. Yes, it makes sense. I wasn't aware this had appeared.
- 20 In fact, I thought that they weren't going to run the
- 21 article, so I -- this has been slightly sprung on me,
- but I don't really know what to say about it.
- 23 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Mr Sherborne, had you seen article
- 24 MR SHERBORNE: I had not seen it until very recently, sir.
- 25 MR JAY: I provided it this morning, but I accept that

Page 91

- 1 that's --
- 2 MR SHERBORNE: I'd not seen it.
- 3 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: We've coped with it. We've now pu
- 4 it together.
- 5 A. We've coped.
- 6 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Right.
- 7 MR JAY: Can I just check, before we go back to the point
- 8 you wanted to raise, that we were covering the ground.
- 9 Yes.
- There is an article I'm asked to draw to your - attention, but it may be that there simply hasn't been
- 12 the opportunity for you properly to consider this and
- 13 therefore it's not something I --
- 14 A. I was just given it before I came up here to --
- 15 Q. Yes.
- 16 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: What's --
- 17 MR JAY: This came to me very, very late from the
- Daily Mail. It's probably something if we're going to
- 19 explore at all you should have the opportunity to look
- at. I don't think it's right I can really press it now
- 21 without the witness having even had the chance to read
- 22 it.
- 23 A. I am happy to answer questions on this. I don't know
- what's coming, but I am. I sort of skimmed through it
- 25 just before I came up here to sit down. I'd just seen

- 1 it. I'm happy to talk about it.
- 2 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Can I see it?
- 3 MR JAY: Is there a spare copy? (Handed)
- 4 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Thank you. Hang on.
- 5 It's an article 12.5 years ago?
- 6 MR JAY: Yes.
- 7 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: All right.
- 8 MR JAY: Let me see if I can put the point in the way that
- 9 others would wish me to put it.
- 10 A. Yes.
- 11 Q. The sequence of events, on my understanding, is this,
- that after your first Harry Potter book, which was of
- course in 1997, you were interviewed by Angela Levin,
- then of the Daily Mail. Various personal matters are
- dealt with. It's not necessarily to go into them at
- all, but the article was not published at that time, as
- we can see. It was not published until 9 July 1999.
- 18 Are you with me so far, Ms Rowling?
- 19 A. I am.
- 20 Q. This was published apparently after the second
- 21 Harry Potter novel was published.
- 22 A. Sorry, no, this is 1999, so that would have been around
- the time that the third book was published.
- 24 Q. Right.
- 25 A. The picture here is of the first book, but I see the Page 93 complained about. It seems to be largely factual. It's all information that I had already discussed in other interviews in the early part of my career as a published

see that there's anything in here that I would have

- writer, so I cannot see why -- what I would have been
- 6 angry about.
- 7 But then while racking my brains it occurred to me.
- 8 In 1999, when the third Harry Potter book was about to
- 9 be published, I did tell my publishers that I did not
- wish to do any press, and the reason for that was that
- 11 the phenomenon, if I can call it that, had really taken
- off, the books were selling very, very fast. I don't
- absolutely love giving interviews. Obviously it depends
- on the circumstances, but it's not my very favourite
- thing, and I just felt that giving more press felt like
- overkill. So I said to them, "Can we not say the books
- are selling very well and not do a big marketing
- 18 campaign?" They were very understanding of that and
- 19 I did one interview, on Radio 4, with Jim Naughtie I
- think and some children.
- I think that what seems to have happened is that the
- 22 Mail has published this article when I had not given
- them the interview at that time. However, I made no
- complaint about that. It may be that they -- it may be that someone at my publishers said to the Mail, "But
 - that someone at my publishers said to the Mail, "But Page 95
- date on it is 1999, so that would have been when the
- 2 third book was published, not the second.
- 3 Q. Right, okay.
- 4 A. In fact it says here:
- 5 "Her new book, Harry Potter and the Prisoner of
- 6 Azkaban, is the third in her series."
- 7 Q. So I shall notionally correct what I'd been told. I was
- 8 told it was the second. In fact it's the third.
- 9 A. Yes
- 10 Q. The point that I'm asked to put is that your publishers
- then telephoned the Daily Mail to say you were very
- angry at the publication of this article. Is that
- 13 right?
- 14 A. No.
- 15 O. No?
- 16 A. I do not recall ever asking my publishers to tell -- to
- tell a newspaper I was angry. I -- this -- as you know,
- you told me I would be asked this question just shortly
- before we came into court, and I've been racking my
- 20 brains as to what this refers to. I have no memory,
- ever, of complaining through my publishers to any
- newspaper. That's not the way I would complain to
- a newspaper. I would go to the PCC or I would go to
- a lawyer, I suppose, if it was something terrible.
- 25 Moreover, I have now read this article and I can't Page 94

- she's not doing press", but I never gave instruction for
- a complaint to be made. So I'm slightly mystified.
- 3 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Actually, if one reads it, it's
- 4 information that you've already described you're content
- 5 to recognise is in the public domain.
- 6 A. Yes, sir.
- 7 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Except that it names your daughter.
- 8 A. To whom I'd already dedicated the first book.
- 9 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Oh, so we know the name of your
- 10 daughter. All right.
- 11 MR JAY: I think we're beginning to understand where we are
- 12 with this piece. It's perhaps not advancing the sum
- 13 total of our knowledge in the context of press culture,
- 14 practices and ethics.
- 15 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: I understand entirely why it was felt
- 16 appropriate to put it forward.
- 17 MR JAY: Yes.
- 18 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Right. There was one other article?
- 19 MR JAY: I am having difficulty finding it.
- 20 A. Yes, so am I, but I know it's in here.
- 21 MR SHERBORNE: Can I assist, given the hour? It's an - article in March 2003 that was written by Carole Malone
- in the Sunday Mirror.
- 24 LORD JUSTICE LEVESON: Is it in the statement?
- 25 MR SHERBORNE: I don't think that's in the statement.
